SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2.

THE ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

Several members of the House called upon the Senate, to-day, to urge the adoption of the House resolutions fixing the last day of May as the time for adjournment. Congress will be ready to do so as soon as the Tariff and Internal Revenue bills are disposed of. All of the large appropriation bills have been acted upon or passed in committee. To-day the naval and civil appropriation bills, with Senate amendments, were considered by the House Ways and Means Committee. The belief is that they will be reported to the House to-morrow or Wednesday.

THE FORT PILLOW MASSACRE.

Messrs. WADE and GOODRICH reported the result of their investigations of the Fort Pillow massacre to-day to the War Committee. The testimony is voluminous, and establishes the perpetration of deeds by rebels in that affair, greatly exceeding in atrocity those detailed in published statements. An order accompanies these papers, found in the rebel camp, signed by the officer in command, threatening that no quarters would be allowed in event of surrender.

PROMOTION OF THE PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL.

A recent act of Congress having conferred the rank of Brigadier-General upon the Provost-Marshal-General, the President to-day sent to the Senate the name of Col. FRY, who, since the establishment of that bureau, has filled that position.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2.

THE REJECTION OF THE STATE CONSTITUTION BY NEVADA.

A copy of a letter from Gov. NYE, of Nevada, to the Secretary of State, has been sent to Congress with regard to the defeat by the people of the State Constitution. The Governor suggests that the Constitution contained stringent provisions in regard to the right of suffrage which arrayed the disloyal element against it. Many miners objected to the provision imposing a tax upon mining. It was submitted at the same time with the State election, and some upon the State ticket having excited much dissatisfaction, there was exceptions taken to some proceedings of the convention. All these causes combined sufficed to defeat the State Constitution. Virginia City and the county adjacent, which are entitled to one-third of the representation of the Territory, instructed their nominees to vote against the tax on mines. This alarmed the farmers, who thought the whole tax would fall on them, and many joined the disaffected to defeat the Constitution. He says there is a good Union majority in every precinct in the county. There are too many disloyal, who annoy and perplex constantly. Considerable of the secession element exists in recent immigration, mainly from Southern Illinois, Missouri, and Southern Indiana, and scattered rebel armies of the Southwest. This character of immigration, he thinks, will be greatly increased this season. The struggle between the parties has been earnest and embittered. He has no doubt that Nevada will immediately respond to the Enabling Act passed by Congress. Thirty millions of dollars in precious metals has been mined the past year. When irrigation is reduced to a system, it is claimed that the Territory will produce a sufficiency of vegetables and cereals.

THE FORT PILLOW MASSACRE.

The Sub-Committee on the Conduct of the War (Senator WADE and Representative GOOCH,) have returned from Fort Pillow. They took fifty-seven depositions, all of which more than confirm the newspaper accounts of the massacre. They say that it would be impossible to exaggerate the cruelties committed. Among the witnesses who were examined is the negro who was buried alive and who dug himself out of his own grave. There is no doubt of the fact that one or more persons were nailed through their flesh to pieces of wood, and then burnt alive. Not only on the day of the surrender were such fiendish acts perpetrated, but on the next day, in cold blood. The victims seen by the committee were, some of them, pierced and cut in the face and eyes with bayonets and swords, while other parts of their bodies were smashed and disfigured, either by steel or lead.

THE TEN-FORTY LOAN.

Subscriptions to the ten-forty loan, reported to the Treasury Department to-day, amount to $1,400,000.

CORRECTION.

The name of Mr. O'NEILL was incorrectly printed in the yeas and nays, among those who on Saturday voted against equalizing the pay of white and black soldiers. He voted for that amendment.

GEN. MARTINDALE RELIEVED.

Brig. Gen. J. H. MARTINDALE has been relieved as Military Governor of this District, and Col. N. M. WISEWELL, of the Veteran Reserve Corps, ordered to his place.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2.

A PETITION FROM NAVAL OFFICERS.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Union,) presented a petition from naval officers, representing that formerly there were ninety-seven Commanders and sixty-five Captains in the navy, and now, notwithstanding the vast increase, the Commanders have been reduced to twenty-seven in number; and that in consequence Lieutenant-Commanders have to serve as Commanders in numbers of cases, and Commanders as Captains, without the additional rank and pay. They pray relief in the premises. Referred to the Naval Committee.

PRE-EMPTION CLAIMS IN CALIFORNIA.

The bill to grant preemption to certain lands in California, was called up, and after some remarks in its favor by Mr. CONNESS, passed.

REGULATION OF THE COASTING TRADE.

Mr. MORRILL, of Maine, (Union,) called up the bill to regulate the Foreign and coasting trade on the northern, northeastern and northwestern frontiers of the United States, which was passed.

THE INTERNAL TAX BILL.

The bill to provide for the collection of internal revenue, was received from the House and referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Mr. FESSENDEN, of Maine, (Union,) one thousand copies of the House Internal Revenue Bill, were ordered to be printed for the use of the Senate.

SOLDIERS' CEMETERY.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) offered a resolution to provide additional grounds for the cemetery at the Soldiers' Home, District of Columbia. It directs the Secretary of War to add to the Soldiers' Cemetery such portions of the grounds adjacent as may be serviceable for the purpose. He stated that six thousand soldiers had been already interred in this cemetery, principally since the war commenced, and additional ground was now needed, that all the soldiers now buried in this vicinity should be interred in one ground, so as to make their resting-place a spot of common interest. The resolution was adopted.

THE RIGHTS OF COLORED PERSONS IN THE SERVICE.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, (Union,) called up his resolution requesting the President to communicate the opinion of the Attorney-General as to the rights of persons of African descent in the regular and volunteer service, with accompanying papers. Adopted.

THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

Mr. HALE, of New-Hampshire, (Union,) offered a resolution that the Committee on Military Affairs inquire into the present condition of the Soldiers' Home, the administration of the funds of that institution, and whether some other mode of relief, by pension or otherwise, would not be for the public interest. Adopted.

AID TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. WILSON, of Massacusetts, (Union,) introduced a bill to grant one million acres of the public lands for the benefit of public schools in the District of Columbia. The lands are to be taken from any subject to private entry. The proceeds are to be forever devoted to the instruction of children between the ages of five and seventeen years, without distinction of color. Men of color, between the ages of twenty and sixty, in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and the County of Washington, shall each annually pay a poll tax of one dollar for the use and benefit of public schools, to be assessed and collected by the corporate authorities of these cities, and the Levy Court of said county.

WISCONSIN LAND GRANTS.

Mr. HENDRICKS called up the Senate joint resolution to pay the State of Wisconsin five per cent of the grant of lands made heretofore to her for literary purposes, which laid over at the expiration of the morning hour.

INFORMATION ABOUT NEVADA.

The Chair presented a letter from the President in answer to the Senate resolution, calling for information as to the Territory of Nevada, and enclosing a letter from Gov. JAMES W. NYE.

RELIEF OF INDIANS.

Mr. DOOLITTLE, of Wisconsin, (Union,) from the Committee on Public Lands, reported back the bill for the relief of certain friendly Indians with two amendments, and moved they be printed. Ordered.

THE ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Army Appropriation Bill was received from the House with amendments, and on motion of Mr. FESSENDEN it was referred to the Committee on Finance and ordered to be printed.

THE NATIONAL CURRENCY BILL.

The bill to provide a National Currency was then presented to the Senate by the Chair as reported from the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, (Dem.) by unanimous consent introduced an amendment preventing associations under the act from holding real estate for a longer period than five years. Adopted.

Mr. DAVIS offered an amendment that, after the 31st of December, every association doing business under this act, six months after the rebellion shall be crushed, and the authority of the Government restored, be required to redeem with gold and silver their notes and circulation at their several offices.

Mr. DAVIS said he was no friend of the present measure in any form. But as the bill was to become a law it should be made as unobjectionable as possible. He thought his amendment was of the most vital importance. There was never a wholly commercial country on the face of the earth that retained for a considerable time an irredeemable paper currency. The universal practice by the inexorable rule of the world was was gold and silver. Congress should not change the law of the world. The sooner this present measure was stamped as a temporary expedient to pass away on the restoration of peace and tranquility, and the laws of money that have regulated the world for eighteen centuries should be recognized, the better for the Government.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Maryland, (Union,) did not deny that this whole measure was one of expediency. No one could indicate the day when the rebellion would be subdued. As long as the war lasted, we could not resume specie payments. The banks established under this bill could not be expected in six months after the suppression of the rebellion to redeem their enormous issues in specie without great financial curtailment and embarrassment. We should be very cautious in fixing a period for the resumption of specie payments.

The amendment was rejected.

THE PAY OF THE HUNDRED DAYS TROOPS.

Mr. FESSENDEN reported from the Finance Committee the House bill, appropriating $25,000,000 for the payment of the volunteers called out for one hundred days, with a recommendation that it pass.

Mr. HALE, of New Hampshire, (Union,) opposed the measure as unwise. While he would keep faith with every man called out by the Government he should oppose the resolution as eminently unwise.

Mr. FESSENDEN said whatever might be his individual opinions of the wisdom of the call, they had been offered and accepted by the Commander-in-Chief and he should vote to appropriate the amount required.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Missouri, (Union,) would vote any amount of money to pay troops called out for a longer period; but he did not think the present bill of any account—in fact it was a perfect humbug. These men could not be drilled in this time.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Union,) inquired how long the men at Wilson's Creek had been drilled.

Mr. HENDERSON said, so far as the Missouri troops were concerned, they were mustered into the service in August, 1861, but they had been drilled for a number of years previously. For himself, he was opposed to calling out a mob.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, (Union,) said there could be no doubt, under the existing law, of the President's authority to call out these troops; and, whatever might be our opinion as to the wisdom of the call, we should vote the appropriation.

Mr. CARLILE, of Virginia, (Dem.,) did not think it was respectful on the part of the President to have slighted Congress in not having indicated his intention to call out these troops for one hundred days. This proposed action placed the Treasury of the United States directly under the control of the President, and we sat here merely to vote the money to carry out, and not to determine measures. The sum proposed would not half cover the cost. Besides this, these men were to be taken at a time when labor was of more value to the country than any service they could render in the field in their short term of service.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachussetts, (Union,) said he had expressed to the Secretary of War his opinion that this proposition of the Western Governors ought not to be accepted. The President, however, having the sanction of the law, and having exercised it, he should vote for it. He was in favor of calling out the troops for a longer period.

Mr. HENDERSON inquired if the President had given a verbal or written acceptance to the offer of the Western Governors.

Mr. WILSON understood it to have been an official acceptance by the President, advised and approved by Gen. GRANT; and the draft of the bill before us was inclosed in letter to the Chairmen of the Military Committee of both Houses. The mode of the call was proper enough, though many doubted its wisdom. He voted for the measure, and put the responsibility where it belonged—on the President.

Mr. CLARK, of New-Hampshire, (Union,) said the great point was, whether this call, having met the approval of the Executive, after consultation with the Commander of the Army, should not now be sanctioned by the Senate. For one, he was not willing to say so. When this great campaign was about to commence, and when we needed men, and the Governors of States offered them, he wanted to know why the Senate would refuse them, or prevent them from rallying to our standard. He, for one, would not be willing to take that responsibility.

Mr. FESSENDEN did not think we should raise technical objections in the present emergencies. We certainly had the power to make the appropriation whatever might or might not be the wisdom of the object it was designed to forward. He was not a military man, and yielded his judgment to those who were or even presumed to be such.

Mr. JOHNSON opposed the measure. He would inquire why the Governors of other States had not been consulted? Was the opinion of able general officers in the service and their advice heeded before the acceptance of this offer? If we have heretofore passed laws conferring the power on the President to accept these troops, then in good faith we were bound to support him. He took the view that we were under no such obligations, and felt bound to vote against the bill.

Mr. WILSON called attention to the law of 1861, which clearly gave authority to the President to call for the militia in particular contingencies.

Mr. CONNESS, of California, (Union,) said he frequently gave votes in favor of measures when he had doubts as to their propriety and wisdom, because in our present troubles he felt it his duty to do so. This measure did not receive the concurrence of his judgment, and he should vote against it. It proposed that 100,000 men should be mustered in for one hundred days, at an expense of $25,000,000, to be doubled and quadrupled. The first knowledge he had of this measure came to him from the public press. It was said that these Governors would call upon the President with their offer, and the next announcement was that the President had accepted it. Who authorized these Governors to generate this method of carrying on the war? Was not this the function of the President and his Cabinet? If the President wanted additional men, why in God's name didn't he call for them, to the extent of 500,000, for two or three years, or for the war—and thus inspire the nation, instead of trifling with it and mortifying its temper. He said this as a friend, than whom no truer could be found to the Administration.

Mr. LANE, of Indiana, (Union,) defended the acceptance of the troops offered by the Western Governors. Their proclamations calling them out expressly stated that their action had the indorsement of the President. For himself he was as willing as any one to advocate a stringent conscription law.

Mr. CONNESS offered an amendment giving the President power to continue the services of these troops six months from the date of their muster.

Rejected—25 to 11.

Mr. HENDERSON offered an amendment providing that no part of said appropriation be paid to the troops mustered in after May 15, 1864, unless they shall be mustered for a period of six months.

Rejected—19 to 17.

The bill was then put upon its passage, with the following result:

AYES—Messrs. Anthony, Clark, Collamer, Cowan, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foot, Foster, Grimes, Hale, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Lane of Indiana, Lane of Kansas, Morgan, Morrill, Sherman, Sumner, Van Winkle, Willey, Wilson—22.

NAYS—Buckalew, Carlisle, Chandler, Conness, Davis, Harding, Henderson, Johnson, Nesmith, Pomeroy, Powell, Riddle, Sprague—13.

No quorum having voted, the Senate adjourned at ten minutes past five o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2.

THE WAR DEBT OF THE STATES.

The House took up and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs the resolution of Mr. BLAINE, of Maine, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to state the amount of debt incurred by the several States to aid in suppressing the rebellion, and declaring, as the judgment of the House, that all debts legitimately contracted should be assumed and liquidated by the General Government.

RECONSTRUCTION.

The House then took up the resolution of Mr. HARDING, offered last December, declaring:

That the Union is not dissolved, and that whenever the rebellion in any one of the seceded States shall be put down or subdued, either by force or voluntary submission to the authority of the Constitution and laws, such State shall be restored to all its rights and privileges under the Constitution of such State and the Constitution of the United States, including the right to regulate, order and control its own domestic institutions, free from all legislative or executive control.

Mr. HARDING, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) said the question turned on the fact whether the Union is dissolved, or not, and that whenever a rebellious State is subdued, or voluntarily returns to its allegiance, it is a State in the Union, with all the rights belonging to it under the Constitution.

Mr. HARDING, said whoever voted against the resolution threw himself into the position of saying that the "Union is dissolved." None but a revolutionist, disunionist or secessionist would oppose it.

Mr. UPSON, of Michigan, (Union,) moved to lay the resolution on the table.

The motion of Mr. UPSON was agreed to by yeas, 67; nays, 56.

YEAS—Messrs. Alley, Allison, Ames, Anderson, Arnold, Ashley, Baldwin of Massachusetts, Baxter, Beaman, Blow, Boutwell, Boyd, Brandegee, Broomall, Cole, Davis, Deming, Donnelly, Driggs, Eckley, Eliot, Farnsworth, Fenton, Frank, Garfield, Grinnell, Hooper, Hotchkiss, Hubbard of Iowa, Hubbard of Connecticut, Hulburd, Julian, Kelley, Kellogg of Michigan, Loan, Longyear, McClurg, McIndoe, Miller of New-York, Moorehead, Morrill, Morris of New-York, Amos Myers, Leonard Myers, Norton, O'Neill of Pennsylvania, Orth, Perham, Pike, Pomeroy, Price, Rice of Massachusetts, Rice of Maine, Rollins of New-Hampshire, Schenck, Scofield, Shannon, Sloan, Spaulding, Stevens, Thayer, Upson, Washburne of Massachusetts, Williams, Wilder, Wilson, Windom—67.

NAYS—Messrs. Ancona, Bailey, Baldwin of Michigan, Blair of Western Virginia, Brooks, Brown of Western Virginia, Chanler, Clay, Cox, Dawson, Dennison, Eden, Eldridge, Finck, Ganson, Grider, Griswold, Hall, Harding, Harrington, Harris of Illinois, Herrick, Holman, Hutchins, Johnson of Pennsylvania, Johnson of Ohio, Kernan, King, Knapp, Law, Lazear, Leblond, Long, Mallory, Marcy, McDowell, McKinney, Morrison, Noble, Perry, Radford, Robinson, Randall of Missouri, Ross, Scott, Smith, Steele, Stiles, Strouse, Stewart, Whaley, West Virginia, Wheeler, C. A. White, J. W. White, Wood, Yeaman—56.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The House passed the bill appropriating over a million of dollars to indemnify citizens of Minnesota for losses sustained and depredations committed by Sioux Indians in that State, the amount being in accordance with the report of commission on that subject.

The House also passed the Senate bill appropriating two hundred and twenty-three thousand dollars to enable refugee Indians in Kansas to return to their homes in the Cherokee country, and for other relief.

The House also passed the bill for the relief of the Weas and other Indians, making an appropriation to reimburse them for their losses by the abstraction of their bonds from the Interior Department.

Mr. WINDOM, of Minnesota, (Union,) who had reported the preceding bills from the Committee on Indian Affairs, also reported one for the benefit and better management of the Indians. It was passed, and provides as follows:

It shall be lawful for the President to remove any tribe or tribes to any of the public reservations he may deem necessary and proper, and take measures for stimulating them to habits of industry.

THE QUESTION OF GEN. BLAIR'S COMMISSION—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

To the Honorable House of Representatives:

In compliance with the request contained in your resolution of the 29th ult., a copy of which resolution is herewith returned, I have the honor to transmit the following:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2, 1863.

Hon. Montgomery Blair:

MY DEAR SIR: Some days ago I understood you to say that your brother, Gen. FRANK BLAIR, desires to be guided by my wishes as to whether he will occupy his seat in Congress or remain in the field. My wish, then, is compounded of what I believe will be best for the country; and it is that he will come here, put his military commission in my hands, take his seat, go into caucus with our friends, abide the nominations, help elect the nominees, and thus aid to organize a House of Representatives, which will really support the Government in the war. If the result shall be the election of himself as Speaker, let him serve in that position. If not, let him retake his commission and return to the army for the benefit of the country.

This will heal a dangerous schism for him. It will relieve him from a dangerous position or a misunderstanding, as I think he is in danger of being permanently separated from those with whom only he can ever have a real sympathy—the sincere opponents of Slavery.

It will be a mistake if he shall allow the provocations offered him by insincere time-servers to drive him from the house of his own building. He is young yet. He has abundant talents—quite enough to occupy all his time without devoting any to temper.

He is rising in military skill and usefulness. His recent appointment to the command of a Corps, by one so competent to judge as Gen. SHERMAN, proves this. In that line he can serve both the country and himself more profitably than he could as a member of Congress upon the floor.

The foregoing is what I would say if FRANK BLAIR was my brother instead of yours.

(Signed,) A. LINCOLN.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT,
EIGHTH ARMY CORPS, BALTIMORE, Nov. 13, 1863.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

SIR: Inclosed I forward to the President my resignation, to take effect on the 5th of December.

I respectfully request that I may be relieved from my command at an earlier day, say by the 20th instant, or as soon thereafter as some officer can be ordered to succeed me. While I desire to derange the plans or hurry the action of the department as little as possible, it will be a great convenience to me to secure some little time before the session of Congress for a necessary journey, and for some preparations for myself and family, in view of my approaching change of residence and occupation. I could also spend two or three days, I think, very profitably in the service of my successor, after his arrival here. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

(Signed,) ROBERT C. SCHENCK, Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT,
EIGHTH ARMY CORPS, BALTIMORE, Nov. 13, 1863.

SIR: Having concluded to accept the place of member of Congress in the House of Representatives, to which I was elected in October, 1862, I hereby tender the resignation of my commission as Major-General of United States Volunteers, to take effect on the 5th day of December next. I shall leave the military service with much reluctance and a sacrifice of personal feelings and desires, and only consent to do so in the hope that in another capacity I may be able to do some effective service in the cause of my country and Government, in this time of peculiar trial.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your ob't serv't,

(Signed) ROBERT C. SCHENCK, Major-General.

Indorsed on the foregoing:

The resignation of Gen. SCHENCK is accepted, and he is authorized to turn his command over to Brig.-Gen. LOCKWOOD at any time.

(Signed,) EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of State.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Major-Gen. ROBERT C. SCHENCK, Commanding United States Volunteers, Middle Department, Baltimore.

WASHINGTON, January 1, 1864.

I hereby tender my resignation as a Major-General of United States Volunteers. Respectfully,

(Signed,) FRANK P. BLAIR,
Major-General U. S. Volunteers.

From a long dispatch dated April 2, 1864, from Gen. SHERMAN to Gen. GRANT, presenting his plan for disposing of the forces under his command, the following extracts being the only parts pertinent to the subject now under consideration, are taken: After a full consultation with all my army Commanders, I have settled down to the following conclusions, to which I would like to have the President's consent before I make the orders:

Third—Gen. MCPHERSON's corps to be commanded by Gens. LOGAN, BLAIR and DODGE.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

The following telegram was received at Washington at 3 P. M. April 10, 1864, from Culpepper Court-House, Va., 10th, dated April 9, 1864:

Maj.-Gen. H. W. Halleck, Chief of Staff:

Will you please ascertain if Gen. F. P. BLAIR is to be sent to Gen. SHERMAN. If not, an army corps Commander will have to be named for the Fifteenth Corps.

U. S. GRANT, Lieut.-Gen.

WASHINGTON, April 20, 1864.

To the President:

You will do me a great favor by giving the order assigning me to the command of the Seventeenth Army Corps immediately, as I desire to leave Washington next Saturday, to join the command.

I also request the assignment of Capt. ANDREW J. ALEXANDER, of the Third Regiment United States Cavalry as Adjutant-General of the Seventeenth Corps, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. The present Adjutant, or rather the former Adjutant, Col. CLARKE, has, I understand, been relieved by Gen. MCPHERSON, as Adjutant-General of the Department, and the place of Adjutant-General of the Corps is necessarily vacant. I also request the appointment of GEORGE A. MAGUIRE, formerly Captain of the Thirty-first Missouri Volunteer Infantry, as Major and Aid-de-Camp, and Lieut. LOGAN TOMPKINS, of the Twenty-first Missouri Volunteer Infantry, as Captain and Aid-de-Camp, as my Staff.

Respectfully, F. P. BLAIR.

INDORSEMENTS.

The Secretary of War will please have Gen. HALLECK make the proper order in this case.

Hon. Secretary of War:

MY DEAR SIR: According to our understanding with Maj.-Gen. FRANK P. BLAIR, at the time he took his seat in Congress last Winter, he now asks to withdraw his resignation as Major-General, then tendered, and be sent to the field. Let this be done. Let the order sending him be such as shown to-day by the Adjutant-General, only dropping from it the names of MAGUIRE and TOMPKINS.

Yours truly,
A. LINCOLN.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 23, 1864.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

INDIAN AFFAIRS AGAIN.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. BLAINE, of Maine, in the Chair, and considered sundry bills, which, when the Committee rose, were passed, namely:

The bill providing for the removal of certain stray bands of Indians from Wisconsin.

The bill authorizing the President to negotiate with the Indians of Middle Oregon for the relinquishment of the lands belonging to them by treaty.

The bill for the extinguishment of the Indian title to lands in Utah suitable for agricultural and mineral purposes.

THE LIEUTENANT-GENERAL'S STAFF.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, (Union,) introduced a joint resolution providing that the staff officers of the Lieutenant-General shall be entitled to receive the same pay, emoluments and allowances as the staff officers of the same grade on the staffs of corps commanders, to take effect from the day of appointment.

Mr. WASHBURNE said he had a letter which, if desired, he would have read in explanation from Gen. GRANT.

Nobody desired the letter to be read, and the House immediately passed the resolution.

THE MINNESOTA RAILROAD BILL.

The House then, after debate, concurred in the Senate's amendments to the House Minnesota Land and Railroad Bill.

EVENING SESSION.

RECONSTRUCTION.

The bill to guarantee a Republican Government to States subverted or overthrown by the rebellion being under consideration,

Mr. LONGYEAR, of Michigan, (Union,) argued that a State is the people united into one body or community for the purpose of government. Sovereignty is an attribute of government. Primarily sovereignty is in the people. States are erected through the forms of government. These forms become living bodies by virtue of the sovereignty imparted to them by the people. The United States Government is the supreme State to which all the people owe primary allegiance. When a State of the Union becomes subversive of the ends for which it was created, or seeks by virtue of the sovereignty with which it has been invested, to bring the people in conflict with the supreme sovereignty to which they owe primary allegiance, or when such State Government becomes abrogated or destroyed by any means, the sovereignty with which it was invested returns to the people to be exercised by them de novo, and such State ceases to exist as a State of the Union. This contest is war, and all the rules of war state among the rights of the conqueror is the right to dictate to the conquered the form of government they shall adopt. The States, in their corporate capacity, may be treated as foreign enemies, but the people, in respect to their allegiance to the National Government, must be considered and treated as domestic enemies.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) repeated the points heretofore made by him, viz.: that the rebels were entitled to no rights under the Constitution and laws, and could invoke the aid of neither in their behalf; that they were to be treated during the war as belligerents, according to the laws of war and nations; that they could claim no other rights than those of foreign nations, with whom we might be at war, and were subject to all the liabilities of foreign belligerents that their real and personal property may be taken to pay the expenses of the war and to relieve the wounded soldiers and the families of the fallen. While the innocent should be spared, the morally and politically guilty should be punished. He proceeded to reply to the attacks made upon these positions, arguing from the crimes of the belligerents, we were justified in exacting the extreme demands of war. The people were the absolute sovereigns, and there was no other government independent of these sovereigns. When they made any unjust war all their property, both public and private, was subject to forfeiture. The Confederate States were a Republic, however bad might be the sovereigns, and they spoke for the entire people. To allow them to return with their property untouched would be rank injustice to loyal men. If, as had been contended, they were in the Union, where were their representatives here? We were making war upon them for going out of the Union without law, and they should never again be received until they had repented and been rebaptized into the National Union. Alluding to the late speech of Mr. BLAIR, of Missouri, he spoke of that gentleman as stealing the mantle of the President, and stabbing the friends of the President in the latter's name. He concluded by saying that if he (STEVENS) could live to see the land no more trod by the foot of a slave, he would be content with any lot.

At 10½ o'clock the House adjourned.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Important Movements Inaugurated—The Destruction of Madison Court-House—The Rebels Fire Upon our Troops from the Dwellings—Successful Expedition Against Moseby—Twenty-three Prisoners Captured.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2.

FROM THE ARMY.

The movement of the Army, on the 1st of May, was merely for the purpose of changing its position. The rebels appear to be concentrating their main forces toward our left.

A FIGHT WITH MOSEBY'S GUERRILLAS.

The Star says: "The cavalry expedition sent out from Vienna last Thursday, under command of Col. LOWELL, returned to that place yesterday, after having visited Leesburgh, Rectortown and Upperville. Near Upperville a portion of MOSEBY's guerrilla band was encountered, when a sharp fight ensued, which resulted in the loss to the rebels of two killed and four wounded, and twenty-three taken prisoners.

Col. LOWELL lost three men killed and four wounded. Col. LOWELL returned safely to Vienna with the twenty-three prisoners captured from MOSBY, and also three blockade-runners, twenty-five horses, and a large quantity of wool, tobacco and other contraband goods picked up on the route.

THE DESTRUCTION OF MADISON COURT-HOUSE.

The expedition which was sent out from here last week destroyed Madison Court-house.

The expedition met no rebels until about half a mile from the Court-house, when a slight skirmish took place, in which the rebel loss was five and ours none.

The rebels retreated in the direction of the Court-house."

The Star has the following further particulars of the affair:

"The rebels suddenly disappeared, but on our forces entering the town they were received with volleys of musketery, fired from the windows of houses, and were compelled for a time to withdraw.

The officers of the reconnoitring party ordered another advance, when again a destructive fire was poured in from the houses.

There being no other way of smoking out the rebels, orders were issued that the town should be fired.

The torch was applied to a number of houses affording cover for the enemy, whereupon the latter hastily decamped, leaving our forces in possession of the place.

The flames, however, spread very rapidly, and there being no means at hand whereby they could be checked, a general conflagration was the result, and in a short time almost the entire town was in ashes.

The act was certainly not a wanton one on the part of the Union forces, but was rendered necessary by the dastardly act of the rebels, who used the shelter of houses for the purpose of slaughtering our troops.

NEWS FROM RICHMOND.

The Citizens on Half Rations, Etc.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2.

A Richmond paper of Thursday says the languor in the commercial markets shows that the town people will have to live on half rations until the country people, who have provisions to spare, shall have heard of the defeat of GRANT's army. We may then expect supplies from all quarters, and a revival of business on a descending scale of prices.

A dispatch from Orange Court-house, April 27, says, all the Yankees have left the Valley to reinforce MEADE.

A telegram from Fredericksburgh, of the same date, says, as yet there are no indications of GRANT's movements toward Fredericksburgh, unless the telegraph from Occoquan to Alexandria is being repaired by the Yankees.

They did not enter the Federal service until two months after they were sworn into the State service. They come to recruit and reenlist. Their return, will, however, be a loss to Gen. GRANT of 5,000 of his most effective men for the greater part of the Summer campaign.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

The Peace News—Its Effect on the Bourse—The Emperor's Letter—Lord Clarendon's Mission—Peace and Prosperity in Europe—The Termination of the Mexican Affair—Suppression of the Mexican Resolution of the American Congress—French Guardianship of the Mexican Throne.

PARIS, Tuesday, April 19, 1864.

The town is in a great state of agitation, to-day, about the peace news of yesterday, and especially about the results of the news on the Bourse. This morning groups of speculators are collected along the Boulevard counting the victorious and the defeated of yesterday, but especially the victorious, for the Bourse is like a battle-field—the dead are not counted. Thus we are told that the German Banker, W., gained a million on the Credit Mobilier, the Duke de M, two millions on the State funds, and the Baron de R. five millions on railways! Such a streak of luck is enough to disgust one with all mundane things, and so especially think the defeated ones, who join with wonderful harmony in the cry of "favoritism!" and even of "foul play!"

But was there any favoritism, or foul play? The Emperor's letter, announcing peace in Europe, was dated on Friday last, and M. FOULD, to whom it was addressed, held it until yesterday, Monday, before publishing it in the Moniteur. In this interval of three days, according to the declarations of the defeated speculators, word was given out from the Ministry of Finance to a few favorites that the letter in question existed, that it would be published on Monday morning, and that an enormous rise of stocks would be the result. But whether M. FOULD betrayed the secret or not, the signs for the last week were all in favor of peace, and the "bears" must attribute their ruin in great part to their own blindness.

Thus it was well understood around town as early as Saturday that Lord CLARENDON's mission to the Emperor was a success, that the previous good understanding between the two Governments, had been renewed, that in future they would work together on the same platform in the Danish question, and that this renewed alliance was likely to be applied to all European questions, so as to secure peace everywhere. Moreover, the reduction of the war tax on real estate, as the result of the happy termination of the Mexican affair, was announced in the Chambers on Saturday, and finally it was generally understood that the Prussians were about ready to give the assault on the Danish works at Duppel, and that there was little doubt of their success.

Already, too, the probability of an agreement in the London Conference on the subject of an armistice was generally admitted; but, in definitive, no one was prepared for such an avalanche of peace certainties as fell upon us yesterday.

What is to be the result? On every side we hear loud exultations at the prospect of general peace, and people are predicting a speedy reduction of the armies and navies of the great States. And whether these happy results are to be attained or not, it is certain that an immense impetus has been given to commerce and to commercial enterprises in general, and that we are entering upon a season of unexampled prosperity.

The rejoicings over the happy termination of the Mexican affair, are destined to receive a slight cooling off from the resolution voted by the House of Representatives at Washington, and which arrived at Paris last evening. This resolution has not been published yet in the French papers, and we do not yet know, therefore, how it is to be appreciated. But the Government seem to attach very great importance to it, for not only was the telegraphic announcement of it suppressed last evening, but the telegraphic dispatch entire, brought by the Scotia, was delayed. The London Times made the resolution say that the American people would not "tolerate" the new Government in Mexico, and it was probably this version of it which induced the Government to suppress that part of the Scotia's dispatch until further evidence of authenticity should arrive. In my next letter I shall be able to give you an idea of the impression this important resolution of the American Congress has produced.

But to aggravate matters, as between France and the United States, the treaty which has just been concluded between the Emperor of France and the Emperor of Mexico places things in a different situation from what they were at the time Mr. SEWARD wrote the dispatch in which he gave France hopes that the United States would recognize the new order of things in Mexico; for at that time there is reason to believe that the French Government promised the Government of the United States that they were going to retire from Mexico almost immediately after the installation of the Archduke MAXIMILIAN—a promise which naturally led the American Secretary to say that, as defenders of the doctrine of popular sovereignty, the United States would be obliged to accept whatever government the people of Mexico accepted and freely maintained. But now the French Government has violated this promise; for, as will be seen by the treaty between the two empires, the French flag is going to stand guard over the new throne for a period of six years, which is too long a period to respond to the words an "almost immediate evacuation," and which does not allow a free expression of the sentiments of the Mexican people.

Another circumstance connected with this treaty aggravates the case still more. It would have been easy for the French Government to have loaned its officers and men to Maximilian, and to have placed them under the Mexican flag, for they would have served the new Empire just as well as if under the French flag and under French direction, and then it could not be said that it was a French army of occupation, it could not be said that it was in any sense a French Government, and above all France would not have been bound to resent the insults offered to these 8,000 men, nor bound to fight for the Mexican throne.

But it seems that in the counsels of the Emperor there were two parties, a war and a peace party, so to speak, the war party insisting that the way to prevent the interference of the United States in Mexican affairs was to leave the French flag there as a scarecrow as long as possible; while the peace party, better acquainted with the real situation of things in America, advocated the plan of a total withdrawal of the French flag as soon as the new throne could be rendered safe against Mexico itself.

The War party, as you will see by the treaty, succeeded, and the French flag waving over a small army of 8,000 men, is to remain in the country as an intimidation to the Americans: for, to prove that this is the object of that provision of the treaty, I have only to say that there is not a man in France who does not believe that Maximilian could easily compose an army of his own of foreign and native elements quite sufficient to protect him against the National party in Mexico, and that if he had not believed the country was pacified, or rather converted to that extent, he would never have undertaken the voyage.

This leaving of the French flag in the country is therefore a menace to us, it is a warning by which France says to the United States: "We are still in Mexico, and if you attack the new order of things before the expiration of six years you will have a war on your hands with France." The resolution of the American Congress therefore could not have fallen in a more propitious moment, for although it is destined to render more delicate the relations between the two countries, it will at the same time enlighten the situation and allow each party to see where the other stands, and this is always an advantage.

There is an immense amount of talk in France about the reception offered in England to Garibaldi; but all we can see in this talk is that the French do not comprehend either Garibaldi or the English.

MALAKOFF.

OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

Garibaldi—Cardinal Wiseman—A Visit to Mazzini—Trouble Brewing—What England Must Do—Parliament—Union and Confederate Organs in London—Southern Illusions—Denmark and the Conference—The Plebiscite—Mexico—English Trade and Revenue—Wonders of Free Trade—Beer and Spirits—A Confederate Joke.

LONDON, Saturday, April 16, 1864.

England is full of Garibaldi. The volunteers were not allowed to participate in his reception, because that would have made it national; but the nation receives him for all that—the upper hundred thousand and the lower millions. He has visited Lord Palmerston and Earl Russell, and he has breakfasted with Mr. Gladstone. Tuesday night he was all but crushed to death at the Royal Italian Opera. He has breakfasted at Chiswick between two Duchesses. To-day there is a grand five-shilling concert and presentation by the aristocracy at the Crystal Palace, and on Monday the shilling democracy will perform a similar ceremony. Garibaldi's portraits are in all the shop windows. The Lancet and Medical Times have profound articles on his stiff ankle, which offers them a mild specimen of ankleosis; (this is a mild joke;) and through it all the old Roman wears his red shirt and gray capote, and is a hero of romance, stepped out of some sensation story-book.

But I am mistaken if trouble is not brewing out of it all. The Irishry have been wonderfully quiet. There were not more than a dozen fights, single-handed mostly. Notwithstanding the crowd on the day of the procession, there were only two killed—a groom and a lady, both fractured skulls. It is said that some one was sent by the Government to Cardinal Wiseman, to beg that he would use his influence to prevent any disturbance. "Disturbance!" said his gentle eminence; "why should we make any disturbance? It is true that Garibaldi fought against Rome at one time, but since then he has been fighting against Victor Emmanual. I think that, perhaps, we ought to join in the reception, and testify our gratitude to him." It will be a very clever Prime Minister indeed, that gets to the windward of the Cardinal.

But the trouble I mean is this. Garibaldi is just as headstrong, unmanageable and impracticable as ever. Almost the first thing he did on landing in England was to receive a visit from Mazzini, who, condemned in France and expelled from Switzerland, stays here on sufferance, but in such bad odor, that his friend Mr. Stansfield could not stay in the Cabinet. The fact of Mazzini's visit was suppressed in all the Government papers; but on Thursday, in spite of all efforts to the contrary, Garibaldi visited Mazzini in London, and spent an hour with him. This circumstance is also suppressed in all but the ultra liberal papers. Now Lord Clarendon is in Paris, trying to make up with the Emperor. Can he do so, with Mazzini in London, and visited by Garibaldi, who is also the guest of the highest nobility and Ministers? It is evident that the expulsion of Mazzini from Switzerland, or the denial of asylum there, has been brought about by French influence. England must be on good terms with France, or the conference, which is appointed to meet in four days, must fail. To be on these necessary good terms, England must do several things. One must refuse asylum to conspirators against the life of the Emperor. She must reconsider the refusal to meet Europe in a Congress at Paris. Moreover, she must be prepared, the next time the Emperor proposes to recognize the Confederate States, to recognize the Confederate States, to join him in that recognition, provided always, that the new Commander-in-Chief of the Union armies leaves any Confederacy to recognize.

The social aspects of the Garibaldi furore are curious enough. It is a struggle between the mob and the aristocracy, who shall have him for their hero. The people put in a strong claim, but the nobility have taken possession of him. No Englishman need ever talk about New-York receptions after this. The only difference is that New-York can get up a great public spectacle, and the English can only try to do so.

There has been nothing of more than local interest in the parliamentary proceedings of the past week. Lord Robert Cecil had a question on American affairs down for last night, but he gave way to an anxious desire of the Government to settle the sugar duties. Next week, I judge, there will be a sharp debate on the neutrality question. The Confederates are very active, and the complaints of the Richmond Examiner are quite uncalled for. The Southern agents failed, for the time at least, in getting off the rams, the Alexandra and the Pampero. But in influencing public opinion in England, they have certainly done a great deal. The establishment and management of the Index, the Confederate organ in England, has been very cleverly done. Most of its writers are English, its tone is calm and dignified, its price high, and its circulation, though probably not large, may be very influential. It is, at any rate, a striking contrast to the Northern organ, which happily failed some time ago, and which, with the most loyal and patriotic intentions, certainly did far more injury than benefit to the Union cause; filling its columns with the eccentric speeches of Mr. George Francis Train, at the discussion halls, where beery Englishmen guzzle and spout, and with American correspondence full of brag and bluster. There is, perhaps, no need of a Northern organ in London. The Spectator, Daily News and Morning Star are three powerful and efficient advocates of the Federal cause. A nation with a recognized status, and with powerful organs at home, has no special need of such a representation abroad; but the South, with no recognized position or representatives, had need of such an organ, and it must be admitted that it has been shrewdly and ably managed.

But no newspapers here or at Richmond will save the South—nothing but simple hard fighting, with decent generalship. Of this last Garibaldi's may be as good as any. The only strategy he knows anything about, he says, is the strategy of beating the enemy. A dingy Southern paper, which has somehow got through the blockade, says they have got over all their illusions. Their first was that the Yankees would not fight. The second was that England and France would be compelled to recognize and help them. The third was that the Democratic party in the North would come to their aid. All these hopes have been, one after the other, abandoned, and now they are going in for earnest hard fighting to the end of the chapter. The whole country is to be a camp, and every man, woman and child, white and black, engaged in the public service. How they talk about Spartan valor and Spartan devotion! These Spartans had their Helots also. Well, if the South is really in earnest, the North has only to be equally so, and the odds of three to one must win as long as the rule of three has any virtue. Of course, it may take time, but of that there is always more than plenty.

The little war in Denmark goes on, with its daily accounts of killed and wounded—two or three killed and twenty or thirty wounded, in the siege of Duppel. The Germans are making regular approaches, and wearing out the garrison by day and night cannonading. The grand assault, with its bloody hand-to-hand work, may come off while the members of the Conference are taking their first dinner. What an absurd business it is—talking and fighting together! I see no sense in it, if the Conference can settle anything. But can it? England will open with the basis of the treaty of '52. That will be rejected. France will then propose a plebiscite. Will England, Austria and Prussia accept that? Will Russia? It is hard to see how either can consent to such a precedent. If majorities are to govern, what throne, what dynasty, is safe? In this matter, France leads the revolution in Europe, establishes an Impepial throne in Mexico, and may, any day, with the great Powers, or even England to aid her, insist upon a similar settlement in America. This is the interest which America has in the approaching Conference of London.

As to Mexico, if nothing happens to prevent, she will have her Emperor about the middle of May. He has arranged all his affairs with his brother of Austria. He has definitively renounced all claim to the succession, whatever may be the result of the Mexican business. He has started to fulfil his destiny. I observe that members of Congress are introducing resolutions, and political conventions adopting them, on this Mexican question. I remember "54° 40' or fight."

I do not often bore my readers with statistics, but a few figures from the budget, and budget debates, may interest a nation with a rapidly growing budget of its own. Giving round numbers, and Federal currency, for convenience, the British expenditure for this year, $15,000,000 less than last, will be $335,000,000, and the revenue $347,500,000. The interest on the public debt is $140,000,000. The exports and imports have increased from $1,885,000,000, in 1861, to $2,225,000,000 in 1863. These figures are something tremendous, and the regular increase of trade and revenue, for three years, in spite of the cotton famine, is certainly remarkable. Mr. Cobden claims it for free trade, and wishes English diplomatists to be instructed in its principles, so that they can preach it in Spain and Russia. He did not say America, though his thoughts may have wandered in that direction. A large portion of the revenue of the United Kingdom comes from beer and spirits. The beer drank in England and Wales only, costs $300,000,000 a year. In Scotland and Ireland they drink little beer, but too much whisky. The average for men, women and babies is in England and Wales, $1 a year for spirits, and $1 25 for beer; in Scotland, $5 for spirits, and 35 cents for beer; in Ireland, $2 for spirits, and 25 cents for beer. This is a hard story for Scotland, but I believe the figures do not lie. The Scotch drink more beer than the Irish, and more than twice the quantity of whisky, not reckoning illicit distillation and poisonous adulterations which are practiced to a wretched extent in all the three kingdoms. The whole quantity of imported and excised spirits consumed in the United Kingdom in 1860 was 27,000,000 of gallons; imported wines, 6,700,000 gallons; and we drink 77,000,000 pounds of tea, and smoke and snuff 35,000,000 pounds of tobacco.

Having given this installment of useful knowledge, let me wind up with a Confederate joke on the Confederate currency, which I find in a Charleston paper, where the 196th day of the seige is chronicled, like the appearance of Miss Bateman in "Leah," or Sothern as Lord Drundreary. A gentleman wishing to buy some feed for his cow, estimated that a cart-load of Confederate notes would just pay for a load of shucks, but then, as he had seen the cow chewing a piece of paper, it was a question of relative nutriment, whether he should buy the shucks, or save trouble by feeding out the currency.

MONADNOCK.

NEWS BY THE CITY OF WASHINGTON.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE GALWAY LINE.

The Galway Vindicator is informed, on the highest authority, that an influential and well-established company is likely to take up the Galway line, and run steamers regularly from Galway to America. And it is represented that this company is willing to enter into arrangements for taking the ships, stores, &c., of the old Galway Company.

THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

Late advices from the scene of the wreck of the steamer City of New-York state that the vessel had completely listed over to her starboard side, and settled down considerably. No further attempts would be made to lift her, and when as much cargo as possible had been moved she would be handed over to her insurers.

A later dispatch announces that the hull of the City of New-York had parted in three, and disappeared beneath the water. A strong southwest wind had previously prevailed.

PROVINCIAL MATTERS.

The Bishop of Peterborough is dead.

There was a rumor that the Earl of Carlisle intended to resign the Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland.

THE REBEL LOAN.

The London Times of the 19th, in its City Article, noticing a rally of 1 per cent. in the Confederate Loan on the previous day, attributes it partly to the open defiance of France on the Mexican question by the House of Representatives at Washington, and also ascribes to the same cause a reaction on the Paris Bourse. The announcement that the House of Representatives had unanimously voted that the Federal Government will never recognize or tolerate a monarchy in Mexico, has, however, says the Times, much less significance than if it had proceeded from the Senate, and will probably be ignored or retracted.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.

Mr. Cyrus W. Field had been giving a dinner party at the Palace Hotel, London, to gentlemen friendly to the carrying out of the Atlantic telegraph. Mr. Adams and Mr. John Bright were among the guests and made speeches of a friendly nature in regard to the relations of England and America.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

THE LAIRD RAMS.

In the House of Lords, on the 18th, the Earl of Derby gave notice that on the 26th inst. he should call attention to the correspondence between Her Majesty's Government and Messrs. Laird, of Birkenhead, relative to the Mersey rams.

THE RETIREMENT OF MR. LOWE.

Explanations were given in both Houses in regard to Mr. Lowe's retirement from the Vice-Presidency of the Educational Council, and it was stated Mr. H. Bruce had been appointed his successor.

THE BOGUS REPORT OF THE REBEL NAVY DEPARTMENT.

In the House of Commons on the 18th Lord R. Cecil wished to ask a question, which, at the interposition of the noble lord at the head of the Government, he had postponed on Friday evening. He wished to know from the Attorney-General, whether he still considered a certain report alleged to be signed by Mr. Mallory, on behalf of the Confederate Government, as a document of a character entirely unquestionable, [hear, hear,] as he on a former occasion had described it. [Hear, hear.] He also wished to know whether the Government would lay on the table the dispatch of Mr. Seward with reference to that document.

The Attorney-General thanked the noble lord for giving him the opportunity of assuring the House that when he referred to that document on a former occasion, and used the word "unquestionable," his meaning was simply this—that never having heard any suggestion that the document was not what it professed to be, and knowing that it had been sent to Mr. Adams, and by him to Her Majesty's Government, [hear, hear;] being ignorant also of the peculiar form in which such documents are presented to the Confederate Congress; and also not being aware at the time that an opinion had been expressed doubting the genuineness of the document, he, in his simplicity [a laugh,] did believe that the document was what it purported to be. Had it been so, emanating from the Confederate Government, it would, undoubtedly, have been, as he had represented it, of unquestionable authority. His impression was that the letter of Mr. Adams should be produced. ["No, no," from Mr. Layard, "the dispatch of Lord Lyons."] Well, that the dispatch of Lord Lyons should be produced. ["Hear," and a laugh.]

THE DANISH QUESTION.

In the House of Commons on the 19th, the policy of the Government in regard to Denmark, &c., was debated, but without result.

GARIBALDI.

ABRUPT TERMINATION OF HIS VISIT TO ENGLAND.

It was suddenly announced on Monday, the 18th, that Gen. Garibaldi was unwell, that he was unequal to the excitement through which he was passing, and that in deference to the recommendation of his medical advisers he would bring his sojourn in England to a speedy termination, quitting London en route for Caprera on the 22d April.

The Daily News of the 19th says:

"Until within these few hours Garibaldi was unaware that his visit was to be cut short. The ground alleged is ill health. Mr. Ferguson does not say that Garibaldi must go home, nor anything like it. What the General wants is a week's repose, such as Mr. Seely gave him. After a proper interval of quiet, he might be allowed to visit a selected few of the municipal towns of the North. All this, of course, is said on the assumption that the state of the General's health is really the reason for cutting short his visit. It is said, however, that some great persons have condescended to be jealous of the husbandman of Caprera. Moreover, cool heads among us think that the Garibaldian fever has gone far enough. Nobody can tell what may come of a popular excitement so intense as that we now see. Evidently the General is de trop—then to Caprera with Garibaldi."

The Star says: "The story was in every mouth that a pressure had been brought to bear by the French Government, and that the English Government, desirous to remove all cause of ill-feeling from the mind of an ally, had made a direct and personal appeal to Garibaldi to induce him to cut short his visit and leave the country. On the other hand, it is only fair to state that we have received assurances from some whose authority is likewise entitled to credit, that Garibaldi has not been influenced in any way by the British Government."

The Morning Post says the General will go to Cornwall on Friday, the 22d, to visit Col. Peard—"Garibaldi's Englishman"—and after staying with him for two days, will sail from Plymouth for Caprera, in the Duke of Sutherland's yacht. It is stated that the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland had determined to accompany Garibaldi to his home.

Notwithstanding his alleged indisposition, Garibaldi attended the Crystal Palace again on the 18th, according to programme, to receive the addresses from various trade organizations, &c., and about 25,000 people were present. When the Polish deputations appeared, Garibaldi exclaimed, "Generous Englishmen, abandon not Poland." To the Swiss deputation he also said, "And you, also; I hope that you will not allow poor Poland to die." Garibaldi passed the 19th in comparative quiet.

On the 19th Earl Clarendon, in the House of Lords, and Lord Palmerston, in the House of Commons, emphatically denied that Garibaldi's speedy departure was owing to suggestions by the Government, and scouted the idea that the Emperor Napoleon had made any application of the kind, or that such an application would be listened to.

THE DANISH WAR.

FALL OF DUPPEL.

A Berlin dispatch of the 18th thus announces the fall of Duppel:

"The Duppel redoubts were captured this morning by the Prussian troops. Two thousand Danes were made prisoners. The Prussians have taken entrenchments Nos. 7, 8, 9 and 10

They stormed the tête-du-pont, and captured there 3,000 Danes, including 45 officers. The Danes have blown up one bridge.

A Gravenstein dispatch of the same date says: "The assault upon the Danish works at Duppel was delivered at 10 this morning.

Redoubts Nos. 1 to 7, together with the communications in the rear, were occupied by the Prussians; and while the Brigade Raven took redoubts Nos. 8, 9 and 10, and the tête-du-pont, the bridge was destroyed."

The victory before Duppel was announced at Berlin by salutes on the evening of the 18th.

Great crowds of people surrounded the royal palace cheering the King and Queen, and singing the Prussian national hymn.

Their Majesties appeared on the balcony and thanked the people. Hearty cheers were given also for the army.

Many houses were magnificently illuminated.

The King sent the following telegraphic message to Prince Frederick Charles, of Prussia, whose headquarters were at Spitzberg, near Gravenstein:

"Next to the Lord of Hosts I have to thank my splendid army and the leadership for the glorious victory of this day. Express to the troops my highest acknowledgement, and my royal thanks for their performances. (Signed) WILHELM."

CAPTURE OF THE ISLE OF ALSEN.

A Hamburg dispatch announces that the Isle of Alsen had been occupied by the Prussians.

THE DANISH LOSS.

A late dispatch from Gravenstein says the Danes lost in the assault on Duppel between 80 and 100 officers, including Gen. Duplat and two Colonels killed. 4,000 men were reported hors du combat.

It is stated that the occupation of the whole of Jutland had been resolved upon, as a pledge for indemnification of losses by "Danish piracy."

The Conference was to meet in London on the day the City of Washington left Liverpool.

THE PRUSSIAN LOSS.

A telegram from Gravenstein places the Prussian loss at Duppel, in the assault on the 18th, at two Generals, sixty officers and 600 privates killed and wounded. The Prussians captured 83 cannon.

CAPTURE OF THE BREMEN STEAMSHIPS.

The steamer Bavaria, which left Hamburg on the 17th, and was to have sailed from Southampton on the 20th, for New-York, was captured off the mouth of the Weser by a Danish frigate. She had a large number of passengers on board, and ship and cargo were valued at £120,000. Four ships were captured at the same place on the 19th.

The Germania, from New-York, at Southampton, would not proceed to Hamburg. She had landed her passengers, and would probably discharge her cargo at Southampton.

The Hansa which arrived at Bremen April 16, from New-York, was stopped at the mouth of the Weser by the Danish frigate Niels Juels, but after an examination of her papers was allowed to pursue her course.

THE CONFERENCE.

The Daily News says the Conference may now meet as soon as it please. The assault on Duppel has been delivered; the defenders outnumbered by five to one, have succumbed to the fortune of war. The Prussians have now only to take Alsen to make themselves masters of the whole of Schleswig. The material guarantee which the German Powers sought will then be in their hands, though whether it will avail to secure them anything which they might not have had without it is more than ever doubtful. The mission of the Earl of Clarendon to Paris will enable England and France to appear at the conference united, to oppose the ambitious pretension indulged at Berlin, and acquiesced in at Vienna. Whoever may profit by their agreement, the military insolence of the Prussian court will receive a check.

The London Times also alludes to the understanding which exists between France and England, and says there is a full agreement that the integrity of the Danish Monarchy shall be preserved, and that the unhappy campaign in Schleswig, and the occupation which is exhausting and demoralizing both Duchies, shall be brought to an end.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

MAXIMILIAN'S MOVEMENTS.

The Emperor Maximilian arrived at Rome on the 18th. His reception was brilliant. The French military bands played as he passed through the streets.

The subscriptions to the new Mexican loan were said to be large, and it was already quoted at 1½ per cent. premium.

FRANCE.

THE EMPEROR'S LETTER.

The Emperor had addressed the following letter, dated April 15, to M. Fould, Minister of Finance: "The happy solution of the Mexican affair creates in me a desire to see the country profit by the first repayment of the expenses of the war, by diminishing taxes. Be good enough to see if it be not possible to effect the immediate suppression of the second decime registration fee, only preserving of the general law prepared by the Council of State those arrangements which may be strictly necessary for balancing the budget. This measure, together with the hopes of peace, which every day becomes more certain, will contribute, I trust, to the development of prosperity."

The French Bourse showed considerable fluctuations. Rentes fell about ⅛ per cent. on the 19th, closing at 67.35.

ITALY.

In the Italian Parliament the Minister of Marine had presented his budget, and had introduced a bill to raise a credit of 7,000,000 francs to be applied to the construction of iron-plated ships.

The Times says some members of the Conference met at the official residence of First Lord of the Treasury, yesterday, but owing to the absence of M. de Buest, the meeting was adjourned till Monday next.

THE MINISTRY.

The Daily Telegraph says, the affair of the five Under Secretaries has been settled without the slightest difficulty, as embarrassing Mr. C. Fortescue, who promptly tendered his own resignation. He has been induced to withdraw it, and will remain in the post he so ably fills at the Colonial Office. The vacancy occasioned by Mr. Bruce's advance to Vice-President of the Educational Committee of the Privy Council, will be filled by Mr. Thomas George Boring, now in the India Office. The future Under Secretary for India will be a Peer, leaving only the usual compliment of four Under Secretaries in the House of Commons.

COMMERCIAL.

The Times' City Article says: "A very perceptible change occurred in the tone of the Discount market yesterday. The applications at Bank were moderate and the supply of money at other establishments deemed fully equal to the demand. In the Stock Exchange there was comparatively ease, short loans offered at 5 per cent. All the Stock markets were active, and in foreign Securities there was increased dullness. The Share market and Banks were most affected by general feeling of depression.

THE DANISH BLOCKADE.

The supplement to the London Gazette announces that the ports of Dantzic and Pilau will be blockaded from the 14th.

GEN. GARIBALDI.

At a meeting of the Garibaldi Committee last night, it was resolved that the General be asked to rest awhile and then visit six or eight of our provincial towns. The deputation that presented the request was so far successful that the General consented to reconsider his determination. He said to the deputation, "I much desire to visit my old friends in Newcastle and in the North." In the course of the day it will be known whether or not he leaves tomorrow.

THE CAPTURE OF THE BAVARIA.

The reported capture of the steamship Bavaria by a Danish frigate proves unfounded. She reached Southampton on the night of the 20th. She sails for New-York this evening.

RETREAT OF THE DANES.

The Danes have retreated from Duppel to the Island of Alsen.

THE CONFERENCE.

Some members of the Conference met in London on the 20th. The representative of the German Diet was absent, and the conference adjourned to the 25th.

GARIBALDI.

Garribaldi is reported to have consented to reconsider his determination to quit England on the 22d.

The Moniteur contradicts the assertion, in some of the papers, that Gen. Garibaldi's English visit was to be cut short at the instigation of the French Government.

LONDON, Wednesday.

The excitement in the Metropolis to witness Garibaldi's visit to the city to-day was very great. The whole line of the route was thronged with thousands of people. The weather was that of a splendid Summer day. At 11 o'clock the traffic in the principal streets was closed, and afterward some two thousand of the Metropolitan Police lined Cheapside and the Poultry, across to the Mansion-house, Prince's-street and Moorgate-street, the city police lining St. Paul's Churchyard and Fleet-street.

The General reached the Guildhall at about one o'clock. The reception he met with along the line was most enthusiastic. He replied to the address presenting him with the freedom of the city with animation.

The Globe says that Gen. Garibaldi, and others in his name, have accepted, absolutely or conditionally, invitations to above sixty different places. His kindness disinclined him to refuse any, so he accepted all.

The Evening Herald says Garibaldi will issue a farewell address to the people of England before his departure.

THE DANISH QUESTION.

GRAVENSTEIN, Tuesday, April 19.

By the capture of the forts on the heights of Bybbol, 2,600 Danish soldiers, 40 officers and 90 guns fell into the hands of the Prussians. The tête-du-pont on the mainland, which the Danes held for a short time, had been taken, and the bridge burnt and destroyed. The Danes have crossed into the island of Alsen. The Rolf Krake arrived too late to take part in the defence of the works. She was struck by some shells and retired. The Danish Gen. Daplat is killed. The Prussians have also lost many officers.

SONDERBERG, Tuesday, April 19.

Hostilities will be suspended from 10 A. M. until 6 P. M. to-day, to allow the Danes to evacuate Sonderberg. If the place be not evacuated by that time, the bombardment will be commenced.

THE MEETING OF THE CONFERENCE.

BERLIN, Wednesday, April 20.

As the British Cabinet has fixed the 20th inst. as the date of the meeting of the conference, without the consent of the German Powers, and without considering that Baron Von Beust cannot arrive in London for a few days, the Prussian representatives in London have received instructions not to be present at the opening of the conference, as fixed by England.

It is asserted that the Austrian representatives have received similar instructions.

The Constitutionel, of to-day, says that while France intends to maintain the treaty of 1852, the French Government would not feel entitled to dispose of the Duchies before the populations have been consulted, though as regards the principle of universal suffrage, the usages of a country must be taken as a guide.

EXCITEMENT ON THE BOURSE.

PARIS, Wednesday, April 20—3:30 P. M.

The Bourse has again been excited. Rentes opened at 67f. 90c., and closed at 67f. 15c., or 20c. lower than yesterday. The scrip of the new Mexican loan closed at par.

La France of this evening says it is asserted that it is impossible to sufficiently examine the bill rearranging the fees. The Government will, therefore, confine itself this year to decreeing a suppression of half a decline upon the registration fee, and will bring this subject for debate before the Corps Legislatif in the next session.

THE ASSESSMENT ROLLS FOR 1864.

Estimated Increase of Real Estate, $11,029,000.

Estimated Increase of Personal Estate, $25,000,000.

On last Saturday the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments closed the assessment rolls of the real and personal estate of the County for 1864 to public inspection, and henceforth applications for reductions or other alterations of assessments must be made to the Board of Supervisors. Such applications will be ineffectual, unless the applicant had presented his case to the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments during the four months ending on last Saturday, or was absent from the City or sick during the whole of that period, and was therefore unable to apply to the commissioners or to inspect the assessment rolls.

The books have remained open for inspection and correction since the 9th of January. During this time the commissioners have been daily engaged in hearing and deciding applications for reductions. An application for an increase of an assessment is a rare thing. Only one or two such instances are on record for the past two or three years.

From now till the first Monday in July the commissioners and their twelve deputies will be busy in making corrections of the assessment rolls in accordance with the decisions of the former, so as to hand over the assessment rolls to the Board of Supervisors on that date. The corrections to be made include allowances for services in the militia of the State, and for clergymen as allowed by law. Clergymen are favored with a reduction of $500 each, and all militiamen who have served the full term of seven years in the infantry, and can present their discharge certificates, will be allowed the same reduction. Cavalrymen and artillerymen of the militia who have served the full term and received honorable discharge, are allowed a reduction of double this amount. In all, these reductions allowed by law amount to not more than about $750,000 for the whole City. Many property-holders fail, through neglect, to secure the advantage allowed them by law as militiamen. Some are too much engaged in their every day business to trouble themselves about this matter, because it sometimes requires an hour's waiting at the commissioners' office to get the opportunity to present their claims.

The present footings of the assessment books are unreliable for information as to the total valuations of either wards or the City for 1864, unless due allowance be made for probable deductions, and what these will amount to it is difficult to say. On real estate they will be but little, and principally such as are prescribed by law; but on personal estate the charges made after closing the books to public inspection are always very great, many persons "swearing off," as it is termed, large amounts of the assessments. It is believed, however, that the amount of personal estate which ultimately will be secured for taxation this year will be considerably in excess of the sum taxed last year, notwithstanding the fact that much personal estate has been lost to taxation by investment in Government securities that are exempted by national law from taxation for any purposes. The increase is believed to be attributable to the plenteousness of paper money, and the facility with which many people are "making money." The amount of personal estate assessed in this City in 1863 was, as made up by the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, $191,967,161, of which $179,277,329 belonged to residents, and $12,689,832 to non-residents. The total sum was an increase over the amount assessed in 1862 of $19,551,130. It is roughly estimated that the increase of personal estate for 1864 over 1863 will be $25,000,000. The increase of personal estate in 1862 over 1861 was only $818,814, and all of it was from resident tax-payers.

A closer approximation may be made of the probable total valuations of real estate than of personal estate for 1864, because the deductions to be made from the present footings may be set down in gross at not more than $1,000,000. Beside giving, after making due allowances, an approximate idea of the changes in the valuations of last year, these footings indicate the fluctuations in the value of property in different parts of the City. All this may best be shown by a cursory comparison of them with the valuations of 1862 and 1863. In some cases, two wards form one assessment district, and as the respective footings for them are yet to be run up, the joint footings are used in the following review:

FIRST WARD—Decreased in 1862, as compared with 1861, $3,531,588, and decreased $494,500 further in 1863. For 1864 it shows an increase of $1,500,000 over 1863.

SECOND WARD—Decreased in 1862, $1,815,413; same in 1863, $105,972 more; now shows an increase of $99,000 over 1863.

THIRD WARD—Decreased in 1862 $1,220,200; same in 1863 $301,500; now is increased $300,000 over 1863.

FOURTH WARD—Decreased $341,900 in 1862; $4,850 more in 1863, and will suffer no notable change this year from last year's footings.

FIFTH WARD—Increasee $24,600 in 1862; decreased $297,250 in 1863, and will suffer no notable change this year from last year's footings.

SIXTH WARD—Increased $147,300 in 1862; decreased $16,900 in 1863, and will suffer no notable change this year from last year's footings.

SEVENTH WARD—Decreased $580,200 in 1862; and $70,900 in 1863, and will suffer a considerable reduction this year.

EIGHTH WARD—Decreased $245,872 in 1862; increased $12,800 in 1863, and will remain about the same for 1864, as it was last year.

NINTH AND FIFTEENTH WARDS—Showed only trifling variations in 1862, compared with 1861, and an increase of $117,500 in 1863; now are increased $1,170,000 over last year.

TENTH WARD—Decreased $70,300 in 1862; increased $70,500 in 1863; now is increased $450,000, compared with 1863. The increase is nearly altogether from new buildings. There is not a vacant lot in this ward.

ELEVENTH AND SEVENTEENTH WARDS—Showed only trifling variations in 1862; increased $514,680 in 1863: now increased $600,000 over 1863.

TWELFTH WARD—Increased $646 010 in 1862; $1,035,340 in 1863; now is increased $1,500,000 over 1863.

THIRTEENTH WARD—Decreased $98,300 in 1862; increased $18,300 in 1863; is about the same in valuation this year as it was last year.

FOURTEENTH WARD—Decreased $184,800 in 1862; increased $54,700 in 1863; no notable change this year from last year's valuation.

SIXTEENTH WARD—Increased $11,500 in 1862; $22,600 in 1863, and this year $160,000.

EIGHTEENTH WARD—Decreased $80,750 in 1862; increased $87,400 in 1863; will be increased $800,000 this year.

NINETEENTH WARD—Increased $917,985 in 1862; $1,113,505 in 1863; and will be increased $1,500,000 this year.

TWENTIETH WARD.—Increased $157,501 in 1862; $19,750 in 1863; and $500,000 for 1864.

TWENTY-FIRST WARD—Increased $277,250 in 1862; decreased $66,350 in 1863; will be increased nearly $2,000,000 in 1864.

TWENTY-SECOND WARD—Increased $374,991 in 1862; $239,365 in 1863; and will be increased $450,000 this year.

It will be observed that the First, Second, Third, and Fourth Wards, which suffered decreases in 1862 and 1863, are all increased this year, especially the First, which has increased nearly as much as some of the most flourishing up-town wards. This seems to indicate that the business tide which has for some years been setting up town, has partially taken a counter course, and is eddying back to the lower part of the City.

The Mariposa Injunction Case.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Foster.

Thomas S. Fiske vs. Morris Ketchum, George Opdyke, John C. Fremont, The Mariposa Company and others.—In this case, a rule to show cause why the securities on injunction should not be increased was to have been argued yesterday, but, in the meantime, a second order to show cause why the injunction should not be dissolved had been served upon plaintiff's counsel, and the defendants moved it on for argument.

Counsel for plaintiff, John T. Cochran, Esq., stated that the first order had been set down for a hearing on the 9th of May, next Monday, and that it would be much better to argue both motions at the same time. Defendants' counsel stated that a meeting of the stockholders had been called for Monday next, and, unless this motion was disposed of before that time, it would have a ruinous effect upon the affairs of the company, and that the long continuance of this injunction had already greatly injured them in their business. Counsel for plaintiff said that they had no desire to injure the business of the Company; he only sought to restrain them from the commission of one illegal act. His Honor thought that both motions could be heard at the same time, and the argument was set down for Monday next, at noon.

John T. Cochran, Esq., for plaintiff; David Dudley Field for defendants.

MONDAY, May 2—P. M.

The Weekly Averages of the old Banks of the City of New-York on Saturday, April 30, 1864, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of April 23:

Decrease in Loans	$2,129,228
Decrease in Specie	780,660
Decrease in Circulation	52,969
Increase in Undrawn Deposits	2,600,753

Including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including also the Sub-Treasury balance at the close of the week, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

	May 2, 1863.	April 30, 1864.	April 23, 1864.
Capital	$69,128,000	$69,927,725	$69,722,508
Loans	177,364,956	194,157,495	196,286,723

Specie	36,846,528	24,087,343	24,806,203
Circulation	7,201,169	5,626,978	5,679,947
Gross Deposits	227,260,373	239,010,156	274,051,972
Exchanged	59,563,457	74,431,237	112,073,806
Undrawn	167,696,916	164,578,919	161,978,166
In Sub-Treasury	22,629,790	36,103,249	40,993,688

The Bank return shows a further reduction in Loans, while the Deposits have gone up. The Specie average falls off at Bank on the gain from Customs at the Treasury Office. The condition of things at Bank and the absence of any very active demand from the Stock Brokers, are significant of the return to ease in the Money Market. The Mercantile demand is on a fair scale, owing to the heavy advances of last week for Customs. There is, in consequence, more inquiry for U. S. Stocks and Treasury Certificates, and a better subscription, to-day, for the New Loan. There is no appearance of the revival of speculation on the Stock Exchange, and will not be until the settlements and accounts of losses growing out of the recent breakdown are adjusted. These are now evidently more numerous and involve more serious consequences than were at first suspected. A very large proportion of the Street operators have retired, either from necessity or the depletion of their margins, while inside the Stock Board we hear of no cliques or combinations for a fresh upward movement. These however may be tempted later in the season as Money grows easier and cheaper.

The week opens with a very dull feeling on the Stock Exchange, as the official list of sales testifies. The prices paid on the Railway Shares re generally lower than on Saturday. The Coal Shares are also lower. In other departments the changes are not important. At the Afternoon Board there was a further yielding in prices on the Railways, and a very heavy feeling in the absence of speculative orders.

The subscriptions to the New Loan to-day were:

At First National Bank	$209 000
Sixth National Bank	300,000
Treasury Office	185,000
Together	$694,000

The Customs to-day, under the New Tariff were, as expected, very light. Some of the importers are disposed to Bond their new entries in the hope of lower duties on the general readjustment of the Tariff before July 1. On very many articles we feel quite sure they will find themselves mistaken. From the present temper of Congress and the country, in regard to taxation, we should doubt whether the average change from the Tariff of 1862 will fall much below 50 ℘ cent.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Saturday afternoon. The fall in some of the Western Roads and in Reading is very heavy. The split in the Public Board has used up, for the moment, what little Street business was left from last week's falling off:

	Mon.	Sat.		Mon.	Sat.
U. S. 6s, 1861	114½	114	Mich. Central	135	134

The advance of the Custom-house demand for Gold to-day lowered the price to 177¼@176 ℘ cent. The Exchange market for Wednesday's Cunarder is dull, the trade demand being light in consequence of the payments made last week for Customs by the Importers. A large line of 5-20's was taken to-day, it may be for remittances abroad, at 106 ex coupon.

The following bids were made to-day for the City Bank Shares. The half-yearly Dividend of the Bank of the State of New-York is 5 ℘ cent:

WOOL—The week's business in this line, during the month of April, Messrs. TELLKAMPF & KITCHING notice thus: "During the month of April, the Wool market was quite animated—the transactions were large, at advancing prices, in proportion to the advance of gold—in both Foreign and Domestic Wools, and Pulled Wool is held very firm at our quotations; stocks of them have become quite moderate, and holders are expecting a further advance. Foreign Fine Wools sold largely, and continue in good demand at the higher rates; but the supply of Cape being small, we cannot expect much activity for a while in this class of Wool, but rather anticipate it in Mestizo, the arrivals of which are offering a good selection, and a further supply is expected. Foreign Medium Wools have continued in good request, at advancing rates, and the stock of desirable kinds has become light. Foreign Low Wools have sold freely at higher rates, principally those required for worsted, the stock of which is insufficient. There has been but a slight improvement in prices for all Black and Gray Wools, and such kinds as are fit for blankets, the prices of which are low, and in no proportion to the other wools. The stock of it being moderate, a movement of some amount may have much influence on prices. An increase of duty on Foreign Wools is quite certain, a resolution, of which the following is the substance: "Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives, &c., That until the end of sixty days from the passage of this resolution fifty per centum of the rates of duties and imports now imposed by law on all goods, wares, merchandise and articles imported, shall be added to the present duties and imports now charged on the importation of such articles: Provided, that printing paper, unsized, used for books and newspapers exclusively, shall be exempt from the operation of this resolution," has already passed the two Houses of Congress. The new Tariff Bill will probably take effect on or about the 1st July. The English markets are only moderately stocked. The prices of good Combing Wools—all qualities—have advanced considerably, and other kinds are also higher in price, interfering, to some extent, with shipments to this country. Manufacturers in England and on the Continent are well employed, and buying largely in the different wool markets. The prices in countries of growth, such as Buenos Ayres, the Cape, Russia, East India, etc., have advanced on all descriptions of Wool, and will prevent the filling of quite a number of orders. The Imports of Wool into New-York for the year 1862 were 88,801 bales, 37,347,513 ℔s. The Imports of Wool into New-York for the year 1863 were 108,841 bales, 48,881,361 ℔s. The Imports of Wool into New-York from December 23, 1863, to March 26, 1864, were 43,436 bales, 17,264,142 ℔s. The Imports of Wool into New-York for the month ending April 25, 1864, were 11,568 bales, 5,386,564 ℔s.

Whereas, the distinguished services rendered by Commodore Porter to his country during his long, useful and eventful life, ever characterized by such disinterested devotion, tried fidelity and rare ability, as to elicit the commendation and admiration of the General Government and of every citizen of this great Republic. AN ORDINANCE

TO PROVIDE FOR A CONTINUANCE OF THE AID HERETOFORE GRANTED TO THE FAMILIES OF VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS FROM THE CITY OF NEW-YORK, SERVING IN THE ARMY OF THE UNION.

The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York do ordain as follows:

SEC. 1. The sum of five hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated for the purpose of continuing the aid heretofore granted by the Corporation to the families of volunteer soldiers from this City, who are now serving, or who may hereafter volunteer, or be ordered to serve in the army of the United States, engaged in defending the integrity of the National Union.

SEC. 2. The Comptroller, who shall be Treasurer of the fund hereby created, shall have power to appoint one Assistant Treasurer for each Senatorial District of the City, which Assistant shall make payments to those persons entitled to relief under the provisions of this ordinance, residing in the several Wards comprising such Senatorial Districts. The compensation of the Assistant Treasurers shall not exceed one hundred dollars per month each, which the Comptroller is authorized to pay out of the fund hereby created and appropriated.

SEC. 3. The Comptroller is hereby authorized to borrow, on the credit of the Corporation of the City of New-York, the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, and to issue bonds of the Corporation therefor, in the usual form, which shall be designated and known as the "Volunteer Family Aid Fund Bonds number nine," and the same shall be transferable at the pleasure of the holders thereof, either in person or by attorney, only upon the books of the Corporation, at the office of the Comptroller, and certificates of such transfers shall be indorsed thereon by the Stock Clerk.

SEC. 4. The said bonds shall be signed by the Comptroller, countersigned by the Mayor, sealed with the common seal of the Corporation, and attested by the Clerk of the Common Council. They shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding seven per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, on the first day of May and November in each year, and the principal shall be redeemable on the first day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

SEC. 5. For the payment of the principal of said bonds, and the interest to accrue thereon, the faith of the Corporation of the City of New-York, and also all sums which may hereafter be received from the United States, or from the State of New-York, for the purpose of reimbursing the City for money distributed in pursuance of this Ordinance, are hereby solemnly pledged, and the Comptroller is hereby authorized and required to redeem and cancel the same, from time to time, at or before their maturity.

SEC. 6. The Assistant Treasurers shall pay over the moneys, placed in their hands for that purpose, only to persons presenting orders signed by a majority of the members of the committee acting for the wards in their respective districts; said committees shall consist of four members each, including the Aldermen and Councilmen, as acting for the several wards, together with a citizen or citizens to be appointed by the Aldermen and Councilmen, which citizens must be residents of the wards for which they are to act, except that, for the purpose of this ordinance, the Second and Third Wards shall be deemed and treated as belonging to and forming a part of the First Ward.

SEC. 7. The monthly allowance to the head of each family shall not exceed six dollars; for each child of the soldier under fourteen years of age one dollar and fifty cents; provided that not more than twelve dollars per month be paid to any one family. Payments shall be made semi-monthly, and, for the purpose intended by this section, four weeks shall constitute a month. The oldest child of the soldier shall be considered the head of the family, in case the wife is not living. In the case of widowed mothers having sick children, allowance may be made to such children the same as children of the soldier, in the discretion of the Committee. In case of the death of any member of the families who are entitled to participate in the moneys appropriated by this ordinance the Comptroller is authorized to pay the funeral expenses where actual need and destitution exists, but in no case shall the expense exceed ten dollars, payments to be made upon the certificate of the Committee and visitor of the ward where such person resided.

SEC. 8. No order for relief shall be given to any person who is not, at the time of making the application, a resident of this City, and who was not a resident at the date of the enlistment of the soldier on whose behalf the application for relief is made. Relief shall only be allowed to the families of such soldiers as shall enlist in, or be credited to, the City and County of New-York, and shall have been mustered into the service of the United States, and are actually doing duty in camp or garrison, excepting that the families of those who are sick or wounded, or have been killed, or have died from the effects of wounds received or diseases contracted while in the service of the Government, shall be entitled to the same allowance as if the soldier was in actual service. Nor shall relief be allowed to the family of any soldier who belongs to the Invalid Corps, unless such soldier is counted and allowed on the quota of the City of New-York, under the proclamations of the President of the United States, dated October seventeen, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, and March fourteen, eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

SEC. 9. All persons applying for relief shall be required to produce a certificate from the Colonel or Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment, or the officer commanding the corps to which the soldier belongs, that he is a member of such regiment or corps; and the Ward Committee shall indorse, on the back of the certificate or other evidence of enlistment, the date, name of applicant, relation to soldiers, and the monthly allowance, which indorsement must be signed by a member of the committee. No payment shall be made to or on behalf of the families of commissioned officers, or of soldiers who have deserted.

SEC. 10. The only persons entitled to participate in the distribution of moneys appropriated by this ordinance are the wives, children and widowed mothers, and infirm and unmarried or widowed sisters, and aged and infirm fathers of such soldiers as supported them prior to their enlistment. But nothing contained herein shall be understood to authorize the giving aid from the fund hereby created to those able to support themselves without it.

SEC. 11. Each Ward Committee is hereby authorized to employ a visitor, who must be a resident of the ward for which he is appointed, whose duty it shall be to visit all applicants, at their residences, and to ascertain, by careful investigation, the truth of the allegations, made by such applicants, and no order of relief shall be paid by either of the Assistant Treasurers, unless the visitor of the ward in which the applicant resides shall certify the same to be correct. Whenever the applications in any ward shall have reached six hundred, the Comptroller may employ an assistant visitor. Whenever the number of the applicants in any ward shall exceed one thousand two hundred, the Comptroller may, if he deem it necessary, employ an Additional Assistant Visitor, and it shall be the further duty of the Visitors to attend the meetings of, and perform such clerical duties as may be prescribed by the Ward Committees, and also to attend at the distributing offices of their Senatorial Districts on the days assigned for paying persons from their respective wards.

The compensation of the Visitors shall be two dollars per day each.

SEC. 12. Each Ward Committee may expend for rent, gas, and other necessaries, a sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars per month, which the Comptroller is authorized to pay out of the fund hereby created and appropriated, on bills certified to be correct by a majority of the Committee.

SEC. 13. Each Assistant Treasurer shall, at the expiration of every second week, render to the Comptroller a detailed statement of his disbursements during the preceding fortnight, and the Comptroller shall transmit a summary of such statements to the Common Council, together with an account showing the condition of the fund.

SEC. 14. In case the Assistant Treasurer shall discover that the party to whom any ticket or order for relief has been given is not entitled by this ordinance to the allowances named thereon, he shall withhold further payment, and immediately notify the Ward Committee by which it was issued of the fact, and reasons therefor. If no payment has been made on the ticket, he shall at once return it to the committee. Every person who shall willfully make, or cause to be made, any false statements and representations, for the purpose of obtaining a larger sum than that to which they are entitled under this ordinance, shall thereby be deemed to have forfeited all claims to participation in its benefits.

SEC. 15. Payment shall be made directly to the party in whose favor the ticket is given, but if, by sickness or other unfavorable circumstances, such person is unable to make personal application, the Assistant Treasurer shall require a satisfactory authority for making payment to his or her representative. In no case shall payment be made for or upon more than one ticket to the same person. If, in the opinion of the Ward Committee, it is advisable in consequence of intemperate habits, or from other causes on the part of any person entitled to the aid hereby provided, to pay the amount in groceries or other necessaries, instead of money, then an order to that effect on the Assistant Treasurer, signed by a majority of the Ward Committee, shall be given to some persons authorized by the Committee to furnish such necessaries.

SEC. 16. The Comptroller is hereby authorized to procure, fit up and keep in order a suitable room for the accommodation of each of the Assistant Treasurers, and the applicants in their respective districts, and also to appoint, not exceeding two clerks, one interpreter, and one janitor for each district; the compensation of the clerks shall not exceed sixty dollars per month each, and the interpreter and janitor shall each be allowed for their services at the rate of forty-five dollars per month.

SEC. 17. The Comptroller is hereby requested to solicit the aid of the police to assist in carrying out the provisions of this ordinance.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Intelligence from Helena, Ark., to the 24th is as follows: On April 21, 400 men, under MICHAEL MCCONN and Capt. MEATYARD, crossed into Mississippi, to break up the forces under Capt. LANDERS. After accomplishing this, they recrossed into Arkansas and captured six of FORREST'S guerrillas, who were in the State, viz.: Lieut. Thomas C. Casteel, Lieut. Fealty, Capt. Asmdey, Thomas Quarlus, Thomas Stoneman, and Capt. Wild. These, with Col. Josey, Capt. Wacherly and Lieut. John Thompson were taken a few weeks ago. The guerrillas in Arkansas are without officers. Gen. BUFORD has captured and sent North 450 prisoners within the last few months.

There is no news from the Armies in Virginia save that some slight changes of position have been made in the Army of the Potomac, to counteract similar ones on the part of the rebels. An expedition by Col. LOWELL, of Massachusett Cavalry, against MOSEBY, resulted in the killing and wounding of several and the capture of twenty-three of the guerillas.

Dispatches to the Western papers state that Gen. STEELE captured at Camden, Ark., nine fortifications of great strength, fourteen hogsheads of sugar, four hundred barrels of molasses, several tons of rock salt and three prisoners. The cotton for ten miles round had been burned by PRICE, numbering two thousand bales.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship City of Washington, from Liverpool, April 20, via Queenstown, April 21, arrived at this port yesterday evening, bringing four days' later news. At a late hour last night the Belgian was also telegraphed from Port au Basque, with dates to the 22d, one day still later. The news is of an important character. The Prussians had finally reduced and captured Duppel—the Danish loss being 400 officers, 2,600 men and 90 guns. The Danes threatened to take the Island of Alsen, and the Allies had already sent forces into the Province of Jutland to occupy it, and lay siege to Fredericia. The Conference met in London, informally, on the 20th, but adjourned until the 25th. The Emperor of the French had created much excitement in financial circles by a brief letter to M. FOULD, his Minister of Finance, in which he announces the encouraging prospect for peace in Europe, and congratulates the nation that the early reimbursement of the Mexican War expenses enables him to recommend a decrease in the tax budget. This news produced a panic in the funds. GARIBALDI had suddenly concluded to shorten his visit to England, and would embark for Caprera again on the 22d, though great efforts were making to induce him to remain longer. It was given out that his health was affected, but it was strongly suspected that this departure was because of official intimations, though Lord PALMERSTON, for the British, and the Paris Moniteur, for the French, disclaimed everything of the kind. The Emperor and Empress of Mexico had visited the Pope, and would leave for Mexico on the 20th of April. Other news unimportant.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday very little business of importance was transacted. The bill regulating the foreign and coasting trade was passed, and the Internal Tax bill was received from the House, referred, and ordered printed. Likewise the Army Appropriation bill. A message was received from the President, inclosing a letter from Gov. NYE, of Nevada, giving information relative to the rejection of the State Constitution by the people of that territory. The National Currency Bill was taken up, but no material progress made therein. The joint resolution to appropriate $25,000,000 to pay the expenses of the hundred day troops was taken up, and after a long discussion was put upon its passage, but as no quorum voted, the Senate adjourned.

In the House yesterday, the resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to state the amount of the war debts of the several States, and declaring that all such debts should be assumed and liquidated by the General Government, was taken up and referred to the Military Committee. Some milk-and-water reconstruction resolutions, by Mr. HARDING, were laid upon the table. A bill was passed appropriating over one million of dollars to indemnify the citizens of Minnesota for losses sustained in the Indian war. A message was received from the President, inclosing all the correspondence relative to the commission of Maj.-Gen. BLAIR. In the evening session the bill guaranteeing a republican form of government to States overthrown by the rebellion was taken up, and discussed at length, but no conclusion reached, and the House adjourned.

GENERAL NEWS.

Both Boards of the Common Council met at 2 o'clock P. M. yesterday. Both Boards adopted resolutions appropriately noticing the death of Commodore PORTER, authorizing the Committee on National Affairs to take charge of his remains, lay them in state in the Governor's Room, and that the members of both Boards would attend the funeral in a body on Wednesday. In the Board of Aldermen, a new Relief Fund ordinance, providing for a further issue of bonds to the amount of $500,000, and extending the benefits to the families of persons whose enlistment in the navy is allowed upon our quota, was presented and laid over. A petition from the Sanitary Commission to erect temporary quarters on the Battery for the sick, wounded and discharged soldiers arriving here en route to hospitals and to their homes, was referred to the Committee on Lands and Places. A resolution by Mr. MCKNIGHT, that the Comptroller secure the Union-square Sanitary Fair building, at a cost not to exceed $2,000, for the use of colored troops as temporary barracks and hospital, elicited some equivocal but humorous remarks, and was referred. A resolution to increase the pay of all corporation laborers to $2 per day, and to date back to Jan. 1, was adopted. The board concurred in ordering the publication of 9,000 copies of the Manual for 1864. The resolution to do away with the office of Inspector of City Railroads was concurred in after some remarks by Mr. RYERS. He said the office failed to benefit the people, because the incumbents of it had always made it a sinecure. The present incumbent was a State Senator, (CHRISTIAN B. WOODRUFF,) which was a powerful reason, to some, why the office should not be abolished; but the day was past when the position of Senator was one of high honor, for it was not uncommon of them to seek and accept sinecure offices, worth from $600 to $1,500 per year. In the Board of Councilmen, a resolution by Mr. OPDYKE, directing the Corporation Counsel to further test the title to the Fort Gansevoort property by a suit to eject the present holder of it, and directing the Mayor, Comptroller, and Clerk of the Common Council not to issue bonds to Mr. TAYLOR, for the purchase of it, until further directed by the Common Council, was referred. Both boards adjourned to 2 o'clock P. M. tomorrow.

We learn from the Indianapolis Journal that the quota of one hundred days' men from Indiana is being rapidly filled up. A meeting of ladies to promote enlistments was held at Indianapolis, at which the wife of Gov. MORTON presided. It was resolved that they would tender their services as clerks in the stores, so that the clerks might respond to the call of the Government. They would receive soldiers' pay, and the clerks should have their full salaries continued to them. A long list of the names of the young ladies who have volunteered as substitutes for the clerks is printed in the Indianapolis Journal. Committees were appointed to visit the business men, the clerks, and the fair substitutes, and so to secure the success of the plan.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning a fire occurred in the upper stories of No. 210 Chatham-street. The flames spread rapidly, communication below was cut off, and the occupants, Mrs. HENIG, with three children, were burned to death. Mr. HENIG jumped from a window, sustaining injuries, from the effects of which he soon after died. PETER BURKE, a policeman, GEORGE STUYVESANT and PETER SHIELDS, firemen, were seriously injured by the falling of a wall.

By the Assessment Rolls, closed by the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments last Saturday, the increase of valuation of City real estate is estimated at $11,029,000, and in personal estate at $25,000,000.

During the expedition of GRIERSON'S cavalry from Memphis, a few days ago, a man named HART was captured near Hernando, Miss., having fifty thousand percussion caps, which he was taking to the enemy. On his person was found a copy of the oath of allegiance, and a copy of an exemption from the Memphis militia for thirty days."

Flour and Wheat were very lightly dealt in yesterday, at easier and declining prices, in view of the fall in Gold, and the liberal receipts from the interior, present and prospective. Corn and Oats were in more request, as were also Fruit, Spices, Linseed Oil, Whisky, Hay and the principal kinds of Provisions, at firmer rates. The movements in other articles were restricted. The annual election of Trustees of the Produce Exchange was held during the day. The annual subscription fee of each member of the New-York Commercial Association was advanced from $20 to $25.

The price of Gold was 2½ per cent. lower yesterday than on Saturday. The Stock speculation in Railways was much depressed, and the demand very dull at the close of the day. The Government Stocks firm, with an improved subscription to the new 5 per cent. Loan. Money easy to the Stock Brokers; in fair demand from the Merchants.

The cattle market exhibits some changes in prices since last week. Receipts, 3,400. With a finer run of bullocks than the previous week, prices have declined ½c.@¾c. ℔ lb. Sales slow. Prime cattle are selling at 17c.; good lots at 15c.@16c. Sheep are in moderate supply—wool-sheep, rating at 8½c.@10½c. shorn, selling at 7c.@7½c. The market is well stocked with hogs; prices rule at 8c.@8½c. for the best, nearly 1c. ℔ lb. below former quotations.

A Plea for Union Among Union Men.

We publish this morning a speech by Senator DOOLITTLE, of Wisconsin, on the paramount importance of avoiding, in the discussions of the day, everything not essential to the prosecution of the war, and which can divide Union men or weaken the active loyalty of the people of the loyal States. It was made upon a proposition brought forward by Senator WILKINSON, of Minnesota, to give negroes the right of suffrage in the Territory of Montana. As there has never been but one negro in that territory, and as he either died or left it some time since, the question had no very great practical importance; but it was pressed by Senator WILKINSON and some of his colleagues with as much zeal as if the fate of the Union, or their own reëlection, depended exclusively on the result. Senator DOOLITTLE declined to discuss the question whether negroes should be allowed to vote in Montana—because it was not of the slightest practical consequence, just now, whether they are or not, and because, furthermore, the discussion is very likely to do harm to the cause of the Union by dividing those who are struggling for its preservation. And the object of his speech is to press upon loyal men everywhere the absolute necessity of union and harmony, and of waiving controversies and discussions which threaten to disturb them.

The advice is most excellent. It is in harmony with the universal sentiment of the country. The people do not sympathize with the attempts of demagogues and doctrinaires, in Congress and out of Congress, to force upon the country new and needless issues, social, political or personal. They want the rebellion quelled, and the Union saved. They want the ranks of the army kept full, and its columns kept moving. They want all the elements of strength which the country can command, used freely, vigorously and persistently, to crush the rebel armies. Whatever of muscle or of money may be required they demand shall be had. Whether men be black or white, free or slave, rich or poor, makes no difference; if they can help put down the rebellion and save the nation, they are expected to do it. This is the one thing upon which the people of this country have set their hearts, and they intend to see it accomplished. The overwhelming necessity of the nation—that before which all other necessities and all other considerations must for the moment yield—is a military necessity—the necessity for armies, for vigorous fighting, for decisive victories. Whatever will bring us these, the people favor. Whatever retards and makes them doubtful, they discard and denounce. They are for enlisting negroes because negroes can fight. They are for freeing slaves because giving them freedom weakens the rebels. But they are not for consuming public time and diverting public attention by untimely contests as to their social status, nor as to the civil rights it will be just and wise to give them bye and bye. All these questions will come up in due time, provided we save the nation,—and can then be discussed and adjusted upon their merits. But to force them prematurely upon public attention,—to raise issues and promote dissensions and create parties upon them, in the very midst of the conflict which is to decide the fate of the nation itself, is to put at hazard the very existence of the Government and give the rebellion its only chance of triumph.

Senator DOOLITTLE pleads, with great force and eloquence, for a concentration of thought and of effort upon the great issue on which the destiny of the Republic hangs:—

> "We have," says he, "upon our hands issues enough. The single issue of this great war is enough. It is all the human mind can grasp, and more than any yet have been able to resolve. This gigantic struggle is to determine whether Republican government shall live or die; whether a constitutional form of government, resting upon the people for its support, can be maintained, or must perish forever; whether the union of these States is to be continued or broken; whether we are to maintain our own rights and liberties as free citizens of this great Republic under the Constitution of the United States, or succumb to rebellion, conspiracy, and military despotism. From the course of events, from military necessity in the prosecution of this war, and, as it seems to me—I say it with reverence—by Providential dispensation—the existence of Slavery has become involved in this contest. The prosecution of this war to a final triumph on the part of the United States will of necessity destroy Slavery within all those States in rebellion against the Government. These issues are large enough and broad enough to demand all our time and all our energies, all our means, our whole might, mind, and strength to accomplish that great purpose.
> In God's name let us first save the Union; let us crush the rebellion; let us give freedom to the negroes as the necessary result of the prosecution of this war, and secure it by constitutional amendment. But let us postpone the discussion and action upon this and all other issues, which can only serve to distract, divide and weaken the energies of the loyal people in this great struggle. For myself, I would so conduct our affairs, if it were within my power, that the whole people of the Free States, Loyal States, in this controversy, should stand together as one man, shoulder to shoulder, speaking but one voice, breathing but one sentiment, their hearts pulsating with one wish, that is, to save the Government, crush the rebellion, and trample the Slave Confederacy in pieces."

We believe that this is not only just, sensible and patriotic, but that it embodies the settled sentiment and wish of the great body of the loyal people of the country. Those men, in Congress and elsewhere, who are constantly starting new issues, who seize every occasion to force upon Congress and the public new contests, and to devise new tests of loyalty and patriotic devotion, are neither helping themselves nor serving the country. The nation is becoming impatient of their useless and ill-timed wrangles. It demands that they shall, first of all, save the Union; when that is accomplished, all the rest will be of easy achievement.

Gold Income for the People.

There was a refreshing sight for the holders of the Public Debt at the Treasury Office in Wall-street yesterday. The holders of the 5-20's were present in force. They were notified fifteen days ago that the Gold was ready and waiting to pay their First of May interest; but hundreds of them waited until yesterday before presenting their coupons. This Loan constitutes about two-thirds the present Funded, Gold-bearing stocks of the United States. The May and November payments are the most important of the year. The immediate instalment is $14,250,000 in Gold. Large as this sounds, we may add that the Customs Revenue, specifically pledged for the Gold interest on the Funded Debt, amounted to over fourteen millions in the month of April alone, at the port of New-York. The previous accumulation of Gold in the Treasury from the same source was double this sum. For the fiscal year the Customs will more than double the Gold interest upon the entire Funded Debt. This Debt, exclusive of the new 10-40 years 5 per cent. Loan, is $768,000,000. The present interest-charge in Gold upon this amount is $47,735,000. This will be reduced next year to $46,000,000, by the conversion of the 7.30 per cent. into the 6 per cent. stocks. It will be reduced after the war to $41,000,000, by the reduction of the 5-20 years 6 per cent. into a 5 per cent. stock; if not $10,000,000, by its reduction into a 4 per cent. stock.

The holders of the Popular Loans felt comfortable, yesterday, in receiving their half-yearly income in Gold. They do not mean to hold or hoard it, but, converted into currency, it will purchase a much larger amount of the necessaries and luxuries of life than any other class of income. Beside, this way of investing what is called the redundancy of greenbacks, relieves all apprehension of coming to want from the depreciation of the currency, as no other source of income will. As the difference now stands between Gold and Currency, a 6 per cent. stock of the United States pays 10¾ per cent.; a 5 per cent. stock, such as the new 10-40 Loan now open to subscription at par, pays 9 per cent. Reducing the former to 7½ per cent., and the latter to 6 per cent. by the decline in Gold, the result would be more favorable than on three-fourths the Railway and other Stocks and Bonds now dealt in at the Stock Exchange at a premium. Aside, therefore, from motives of public spirit, every one who has a surplus at Bank, or a redundancy of greenbacks in his pocket, will do well to study his true interest in subscribing to the Gold-bearing Stocks of the Government, which, during the War make sure of a fixed income in Gold, and which, on the conclusion of the War, will command a premium in Gold over their cost in Currency.

PEACE IN EUROPE.—The Emperor of the French has addressed a note to his Minister of Finance upon the "happy solution of the Mexican question." The closing sentence of the note, which is supposed to have a general bearing upon the prospects in Europe, has produced a tremendous sensation, as will be seen by our foreign letters. This important sentence reads thus: "This measure, together with the hopes of peace, which every day becomes more certain, will contribute, I trust, to the development of prosperity." As NAPOLEON is thought to be the master of Europe, and to have the power of controlling, to a great extent, the issues of peace or war, his words have almost as great weight as the march of his legions. It has been widely feared that this would be a Summer of general war in Europe, as the complications there are so many, so wide and so deep. But the Emperor says that peace becomes every day more certain. Perhaps he means it, but his words have not always been capable of a straightforward interpretation.

Corporations.

Mr. MARSH, our Minister at Turin, in his interesting work on Man and Nature, which has just been published, makes some remarks on the social and political influence of the great corporations by which so many of the industrial enterprizes of our day are carried on, which have just now a good deal of appositeness. He says:

> "I shall harm no honest man by endeavoring, as I have done elsewhere, to excite the attention of thinking and conscientious men to the dangers which threaten the great moral and political interests of Christendom from the unscrupulousness of the private associations that now control the monetary affairs, and regulate the transit of persons and property in almost every civilized country. More than one American State is literally governed by unprincipled corporations, which not only defy the legislative power but have too often corrupted even the administration of justice. Similar evils have become almost equally rife in England and on the Continent; and I believe the decay of commercial morality, and I fear of the sense of all higher obligations than those of a pecuniary nature, on both sides of the Atlantic, is to be ascribed more to the influence of joint stock banks and manufacturing and railway companies, to the workings, in short, of what is called the principle of associate action, than to any other one cause of demoralization."

Those who are familiar with the history of the New-York Central and the Camden and Amboy Railroads, as well as that of some of our City railroads, will recognize the justice of these remarks. The growing wealth and influence of our great corporations, taken in connection with the fact that owing to some deplorable defects, either in modern education or in human nature itself, men acting for a company work with an independence of conscience which they would shrink from displaying as individuals, is one of the most alarming social phenomena of our time. Our public companies already wield gigantic power, and they use it like unscrupulous giants. The material progress of the country is very rapid, and of course carries them on with it, and largely as the public comfort and happiness even is now dependent on them, they are governed in all their dealings solely by the desire to make money. The ordinary check, too, on extortion or unfair dealing, competition, is in their case wanting; for they are generally, from the necessity of the case, close monopolies, and all attempts to escape from their tyranny by starting rival or supplementary enterprises, are every day becoming more hopeless. They control the Legislatures, and crush all schemes that seem in the least likely to interfere with their gains. Witness the failure of all efforts to introduce cabs into this City, to secure better accommodation on the railroads, to carry out the Broadway tunnel scheme, and witness the position occupied in New-Jersey by the Camden and Amboy Company.

Some philosophical politicians have flattered themselves that these great trading associations might come in democratic countries to serve the purpose of a good aristocracy, by acting as breaks on the wheels of popular passion, exerting a generally conservative influence; but it is evident that this is a delusion. They are, on the contrary, exactly filling the place of the worst and most debased kind of aristocracy—one that uses power and influence solely for selfish ends, and without the slightest regard to public morals, or happiness, or honor.

THE FATAL LITTLE OPERATIONS OF THE YEAR, AND THE CLOSE OF THEM.—The minor military operations of the current year—and we have had none but minor ones—have been extremely costly and utterly profitless. The Army and Navy Journal for last week makes a comprehensive analysis of them all—something like a dozen in number—including those on the Red River and in Florida; the great raid of SHERMAN and the lesser one of KILPATRICK; the affairs at Plymouth, Paducah and Fort Pillow; and then it asks:

> "What has been the result, what has been the gain of all these operations, which have cost us in killed, wounded and prisoners, not less than ten thousand men, or more than twice the number lost by Gen. GRANT in his great operations from Chattanooga last November? The net profit from all these terribly costly operations is—what? Well, at this time we hold Fort de Russey, and the rebels hold Fort Williams. But what beyond this can truly and positively be set down as the real gains and losses of the dozen expeditions of 1864?"

These are certainty startling figures and facts; but we greatly fear that ten thousand is not an under estimate of the losses we have suffered by these small, desultory, indecisive and unproductive operations. The losses of Gen. BANKS alone at Grand Ecore are now known to have been over five thousand. It was certainly high time for the new military policy of concentration of forces and unity of action to be applied.

The authority we have already quoted shows that all the more recent desultory operations, for the inauguration of which our officers are held responsible (being on the offensive,) are legacies from the times preceding the creation of the Lieutenant-Generalship, and the governance of all our forces by one responsible military head. GRANT has not planned a single secondary operation within the seven weeks since his power was made coextensive with our army; while it were absurd to suppose that either he or any other commander who ever lived, either with a special or general command, could altogether and always prevent such operations on the part of an enemy as those at Paducah and Plymouth. The affair at Olustee took place before he was General-in-Chief, and the expedition of Gen. BANKS was so far under way, and so far away, in Western Louisiana at that time, that it was impossible for GRANT to communicate with it and stop its march in season. We do not entertain a shadow of doubt that the policy inaugurated by Gen. GRANT of avoiding, as far as possible, all little operations and insignificant expeditions, and marshaling the forces of the nation on the decisive fields, will hereafter be consistently and uniformly pursued.

GARIBALDI IN ENGLAND.—The visit of GARIBALDI to England and his abrupt determination to return to Italy, are among the notable episodes of the times. There is no instance in which the appearance of a public personage in Great Britain, native or foreign, has produced a deeper or more universal enthusiasm. Even the loyal demonstrations made on great occasions in honor of Her Majesty, have been surpassed by that in honor of this poor foreigner. The aristocracy vied with the populace, and men of the highest official station were proud to welcome the red-shirted Revolutionist. Suddenly, after being but a few days in England, and before he had proceeded beyond the precincts of London upon his grand tour, his departure from the country was announced.

The ostensible reason given for this was the failure of his health; but this does not seem to be credited by the English people generally. It is thought that LOUIS NAPOLEON'S influence was felt in the matter; and it is further said that certain great persons in England were jealous or afraid of GARIBALDI, and thought that the Garibaldian fever had gone far enough. The idea of French interference has been scouted by Earl CLARENDON in the House of Lords, and by PALMERSTON in the Commons, and if these denials are to be implicitly credited we must fall back on something else. As to the "jealousy of some great persons," of which the London press speaks, we may remark that while the aristocracy have been very elaborate in their courtings of GARIBALDI, GARIBALDI himself has sought mainly the sympathies and friendship of the working classes. It was for this he desired to reach London on a Saturday, that those of the workmen, who on that day have a half holiday, might turn out en masse to meet him. We also observe that almost the first thing he did on landing in England was to receive a visit from MAZZINI, who, as our readers are aware, is now under a very dark cloud. But we shall not attempt to unravel the mystery until we hear further of it and of him.

THE FALL OF DUPPEL.—The great Danish fortress of Duppel, the siege of which by the Prussian troops began in February last, has fallen into the hands of the besiegers. The Danish garrison of twenty-six hundred men, with ninety guns, have fallen into the hands of the Prussians, and the Prussian loss in the assault is set down at six hundred privates and sixty officers. The bombardment of this stronghold has been going on steadily since its investment, without very great loss of life. The Prussians made two assaults upon the works, and the Danish troops made several brave sorties upon the enemy's lines. The fall of the place, under the circumstances of the siege, was inevitable; but it was supposed that the Danes would evacuate it at the last moment, and cross the Sound on their pontoons to the island of Alsen. The assault of the Prussians doubtless prevented this. The Allies have now only to take Alsen to make themselves masters of the whole of Schleswig; and we have a dispatch that this has been effected, but its authenticity is doubtful.

There were immense rejoicings and illuminations in Prussia over this victory, and the King sent the following rather loud dispatch to Prince FREDERICK CHARLES, commanding the Prussian troops:

> "Next to the Lord of Hosts, I have to thank my splendid army and the leadership for the glorious victory of this day. Express to the troops my highest acknowledgement and my royal thanks for their performances."

This result, just preceding the meeting of the London Conference on the Danish question, will greatly tend to simplify its deliberations.

The Mercantile Library Association.

The great value of this institution to the young men of New-York engaged in mercantile pursuits, in elevating their morals, purifying their tastes, and enlarging their acquaintance with literature and ideas, has been felt and seen for too many years to be now a subject of doubt. Thousands of our leading business men have, in other days, enjoyed its benefits, and the fruits of those benefits they still retain and will for life retain. It has at present over forty-five hundred members, about four thousand of whom are young clerks. The library is large, and is constantly being enlarged. The expenses are necessarily heavy, and the demands of the times compel their continual growth. It should be placed on the basis upon which it can act most advantageously and independently, from which it can enlarge its value and its privileges, and render itself attractive to the entire community of mercantile young men.

The President of the Association, Mr. SWORDS, has called a meeting of its members and friends at Clinton Hall this evening, to devise means for the extinguishment of the debt now resting on the building occupied by the Association, so that the present money expended in the annual payment of interest, may go to the improvement of the library. The building is owned by the Clinton Hall Association. The Mercantile Library Association is not in debt; but it pays rent to that association to the amount of the interest on the debt. The Library Association needs to purchase six hundred shares of stock in the Clinton Hall Association to free the latter entirely from debt, and leave the library rent free. Sixty thousand dollars are needed to accomplish this. If the Hall is freed from its present mortgage debt the Mercantile Library will be able, from its own income, to go on with increasing usefulness, and the City will have reason to be more proud of it than ever. It need not be doubted that the old members will come forward promptly and liberally on this occasion.

MORNING BOAT FOR ALBANY.—The Daniel Drew will commence her regular passages between Albany and New-York on Wednesday, May 4—leaving from Desbrosses-street Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 7 A. M., and from Thirtieth-street at 7:10.

AMUSEMENTS.

PHILADELPHIA ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Mr. FRY'S opera of "Notre Dame of Paris" will be produced at this establishment to-morrow night. It inaugurates a series of performances in aid of the Sanitary Fair, which will commence at the same time. Our musical efforts for the cause were dismal failures, arising from the inefficiency of the people who had them in charge. In Philadelphia, a large and liberal plan will, it is hoped, afford a better result. Mr. FRY'S opera is a new work, and will be played for the first time. There was once a prospect that it would be played here in Italian, but difficulties occurred which rendered it impossible. Mr. FRY has contributed the work to the Sanitary Fair, and the Commissioners have wisely concluded to produce it. The artists engaged for the performance are Mme. BORCHARD, Mrs. JENNY KEMPTON, Mr. WM. CASTLE, Mr. J. C. CAMPBELL and Mr. EDWD. SEGUIN. The orchestra and chorus will be of unusual proportions, numbering, in fact, upward of two hundred performers. In addition to this, a grand corps de ballet has been engaged, new scenery painted, new dresses manufactured, &c. The event is one of the most interesting that has occurred in our musical history for many years, and is in fact of so much importance, that nearly all the leading journals of the Metropolis send representatives to the initial performance.

BROOKLYN ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Mr C. JEROME HOPKINS, assisted by the Orpheans—some two hundred youngsters whom he has trained—will give a grand entertainment here to-night.

WINTER GARDEN.—Mr. EDWIN BOOTH commences an engagement here to-night, appearing in his great part of Hamlet in SHAKESPEARE'S play of that name. No living representative of the part can equal Mr. BOOTH in this impersonation. His personal presence does not need the assistance of a red wig, such as the somewhat plethoric Mr. FECHTER uses. It is sufficiently suggestive of the melancholy Prince without that extravagance, and by its calm earnestness and nervous strength impresses the audience, and renders his fine intellectual rendering of the part most touching and exciting.

FROM THE WEST AND SOUTHWEST.

Later from New-Orleans—Capture of a Small Gunboat on the Yazoo by the Rebels—State of Affairs in the Vicinity of Paducah—Doings of Guerrilla Bands, &c.

CAIRO, Sunday, May 1.

By the arrival of the steamer Mollie Able, we have New-Orleans dates to the 26th, and Memphis to the 27th ult.

The steamship Morning Star, from New-York, 16th, arrived at New-Orleans on the 25th.

The cotton market was too unsettled for quotations. A small lot of strict low middling sold at 80c. Sugar and molasses were firm, with good inquiry. Sales, 600 hhds. Sugar at 24c. for good fair, and 24¾c.@25¾c. for fully fair; 500 bbls. Molasses at 95c. for new.

The Mollie Able brought up 200 hogsheads sugar and a few barrels of molasses.

The gunboat Petrel was suddenly boarded, captured and burned by WIRT ADAMS' cavalry on the 23d, two miles above Yazoo City. A number on the boat were killed. Capt. MCELROY and crew are among the missing, and all supposed to be prisoners. The Executive officer, engineer, pilot and an ensign escaped. The Petrel was a small-sized gunboat, and carried four or five guns. On the following Sunday a Federal officer named WOOSTER, formerly in command of a colored regiment, was executed in the same vicinity.

The steamer Tycoon, from the White Ridge, had arrived at Memphis. She reports a skirmish between our cavalry and guerillas near Duvalls Bluff. The enemy was routed, and a number of prisoners captured.

The Arkansas river is falling very rapidly.

The steamer Progress was recently fired into near Concordea, Miss. Another attack was made near Grand Lake. One guerilla was killed and ten taken prisoners. The Progress was attacked for the third time near Island No. 76, but received no injury.

The military authorities at Memphis were pressing the horses of the citizens for the purpose of mounting a body of cavalry on duty in that place.

The cotton market of Memphis was active and firm; all cotton offered was readily taken; receipts small; quotations—Middling to strict middling, 66c.@67c.; good, 68c.@69c.; fair, 72c.

It is reported that Paducah is again threatened, and measures are being taken to prevent the Government property from falling into the hands of the enemy should they advance on that place.

It is said that a thousand people from the country about Paducah and numbers of contrabands are encamped within a radius of ten miles on the side of the river opposite Paducah.

Col. OSBORN, who was wounded at Carbonville on the 27th inst., has since died.

CAIRO, Monday, May 2.

Gens. RANSOM and STONE are passengers by the steamer to Memphis from New-Orleans. Gen. RANSOM is rapidly recovering from his wound. He exonerates Gen. STONE from the responsibility of the disaster resulting from the disposition of our forces at Sabine Cross-roads. He states further that Gen. STONE has endeared himself to the Army of the Gulf by his gallant conduct in the battles of the 8th and 9th.

On the 19th ult. the steamer Roe, bound for New-Orleans, took wood at the mouth of the St. Francis River. The wood being used in the furnaces caused an explosion, which resulted in no damage except the burning of the face and hands of the fireman.

Afterward when about passing Fort Adam, the Roe was signalled by a man near the shore, apparently in distress. The engines were immediately stopped, and the yawl was lowered to go to his relief, when a masked battery from the fort opened and fired ten shots, one of which struck our wheel-house, doing little damage.

MEMPHIS, Friday, April 29.

MARTIN SMITH was executed, to-day, in Fort Pickering, for the crime of smuggling percussion caps to the enemy and violatig his oath of allegiance. He stated at the gallows that his sentence was just and that he was guilty. There are two other men now in prison for the same crime, and will probably suffer the same penalty.

Gen. WASHBURNE is very active in preparing his forces for active duty in the field.

Gen. STURGIS has assumed command of the cavalry here, and is refitting and equipping them.

THE CHENANGO BOILER EXPLOSION.—The investigation in this case was concluded before Coroner NORRIS last night. Three witnesses were examined. Mr. JAMES MONTGOMERY, who claims to be the original inventor of the Martin boiler, testified to that fact, and detailed all the circumstances connected therewith. Mr. WM. A. LIGHTHALL testified that the explosion of the boiler of the Chenango was the result of superheated steam. Mr. DANIEL B. MARTIN, the patentee of the boiler, was recalled, to explain certain facts in relation to his testimony previously given. The Coroner then announced that he would charge the jury this morning at 10 o'clock, and a verdict may therefore be expected this evening.

ORGANIZATION OF THE JERSEY CITY COMMON COUNCIL—APPOINTMENTS.—The Jersey City Common Council met last night and organized by reëlecting Alderman WM. CLARKE, President, and GEORGE CASSEDY, City Clerk. The following-named gentlemen were then elected to fill various offices: City Marshal, Nathaniel Ellis; Corporation Attorney, Richard D. McClellan; City Treasurer, Peter D. Vroom; Collector of City Revenue, John B. Haight; Comptroller, J. S. Hardenbergh; Street Commissioner, John D. Nolan; Overseer of the Poor, Wm. Whitley; City Weigher and Measurer, Joseph McMannus; Sealer of Weights and Measures, William H. Smith; Superintendent of Ferries and Wharves, Joseph H. Rommels; Inspector and Measurer of Lumber, Peter Gordon; City Physicians, Dr. Edward Olcott, Jr., and Dr. Theodore F. Morris; Members of the Board of education, David Gould, John H. Lyon, Thomas T. Lacy, Christopher D. Mills, Francis Robinson, and Andrew Clancey. Alderman Patrick Jordon was temporarily appointed to act as Chief of Police until an election takes place to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Chief of Police Reily. An unsuccessful attempt was made to elect a City Printer. JOHN H. LYON of the Daily Standard, and WM. DAVIDSON of the Chronicle, were nominated, and six ballots were had, resulting in a tie on the last, and further balloting was dispensed with.

The Red River Battles.

The Springfield Republican publishes a private letter from an officer, written at Grand Ecore, La. shortly after Gen. BANKS' battles. The writer says:

"Gen. BANKS was advancing with the confidence that he had only to advance, and advanced faster than the rebels retreated. Seeing our exposed position, they brought on an engagement near Mansfield, which resulted in the loss of all the train and artillery which were irregularly distributed in the train. The attack was so sudden that all were panic-stricken; the horses were cut from the wagons, and artillery and infantry precipitately fled to the rear. Then the cavalry became engaged, but only for a moment, when they abandoned their horses and fled. Then the Thirteenth Army Corps was ordered up, a brigade at a time. Thus this corps was fearfully routed, losing some sixteen or eighteen hundred men, and those who did escape, were forced to abandon their arms. Had it not been for the plunder in the captured train, this entire corps would have been taken prisoners, one brigade at a time. I have talked with many of the Thirteenth Corps who were taken prisoners, and escaped while the rebels were plundering the train. The Thirteenth is now almost without arms. It was commanded by Gen. RANSOM and four brigade commanders. Gen. RANSOM was wounded by a ball passing through his leg above the knee, and three of the brigade commanders were killed. The remaining one, Col. RAYMEN, is now in command of the corps. Gen. BANKS is universally condemned by officers and men. The few rebel prisoners we have are very jubilant, and say, "Well, Gen. BANKS has been the best commissary we have ever had in this department, since he has been in command. We could not get anything from BUTLER." The next morning after the second day's fight, our exhausted and slightly wounded men, who were too much worn out to get off the field that night, on waking up and finding no one about made up their minds that our army had advanced and so went forward. After going two or three miles, they came upon our captured train and many other wagons. This confused them, but on they went, and after they had passed the train and were within a short distance of Pleasant Hill, they were fired upon by rebel pickets. They then knew their condition and retraced their steps. Thus both armies were running from each other. We lost from twenty to thirty pieces of artillery and some five thousand men in killed, wounded and missing. The army gives Gen. A. J. SMITH great credit for his conduct, and say if it had not been for him all would have been lost. The army seem to be expecting an attack; they have been in line of battle to-day."

Fearful Catastrophe in Chatham-square.

FIVE PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH—A POLICEMAN AND TWO WATCHMEN BADLY INJURED.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning a fire occurred at the junction of Doyer-street and Chatham-square. The fire was first discovered in the apartments of JOHN SULLIVAN, on the third floor of premises No. 210 Chatham-square. Five persons perished in the flames, viz.: WM. HENNING, aged 23 years; MARY HENNING, aged 25 years; WM. HENNING, Jr., aged 4 years; MARY HENNING, aged 2 years, and CHAS. HENNING, aged 15 months.

The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, and Fire-Marshal BAKER is engaged in making an examination.

The fire was first discovered in the apartments of JOHN SULLIVANS, at the number named, thence extended throughout the entire building.

The police and firemen are entitled to great credit for the promptness with which they rendered assistance and put out the fire. When the flames were discovered the entire family were asleep, and it is due to the firemen and police to say that through their efforts the fire was quenched. The damages to the building and furniture will amount to about $10,000; it is said to be fully insured. Mr. BAKER will make a report to-day as to the cause of the fire.

Health of the City.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I noticed in the readable columns of your paper, which are ever opened for the public good, an article on the sanitary condition of our City and the progress of typhoid fever in our midst. Having had considerable experience in fevers, I think they result more from a proper want of cleanliness and proper ventilation than from the condition of the streets. Fevers are produced from the pores of the skin being closed, and if daily ablutions in cold water were indulged in, and a proper degree of care taken not to imbibe the poisonous liquors retailed from the corner groceries, and allow the fresh air of Heaven to enter apartments when the poisoned atmosphere of numbers have exhausted the oxygen, I have no doubt that the fevers would soon depart, having nothing to feed on.

The ignorance of man, as regards the greatest blessing that can be conferred on man, health, is doubtless the cause of their suffering from diseases that the early settlers were free from.

Also, all official orders, reports and documents, and the latest and fullest Washington news, European news, with graphic letters from our correspondents in London and Paris, giving the tone of public feeling abroad, is made a special and permanent feature. In addition to Editorials on all the current topics of the day, the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES has a page of carefully prepared commercial matter, giving the latest financial news and market reports: items of agricultural and domestic interest, compiled from sources many of which are otherwise inaccessible to the American reader; and marriages and deaths of the week.

The "SEMI-WEEKLY RECORD," or news summary—being a careful synopsis and digest of the news of the day, both rebellion and general—is alone worth double the subscription price to the paper, as it preserves in a condensed and conveniently classified form all news of interest, and must prove valuable as a record to all time.

TERMS.—One copy one year, $3; two copies one year, $5; five copies one year, $12. Fresh names may at any time be added to Clubs, both of the WEEKLY and SEMI-WEEKLY, at Club rates.

Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more beneficial and appropriate; this can only be done by keeping yourself always supplied, convenient for use, with a bottle of that renowned and imperishable delight of every lady's or gentleman's toilet, the "Fragrant Sozodont;" for cleansing, beautifying and preserving the teeth, sweetening and purifying the breath, it has no equal.

U. S. 10-40 BONDS.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any State or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually, and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Registered Bonds are recorded on the Books of the United States Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1, by paying the accrued interest in coin, (or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit.

As these Bonds are exempt from municipal or State taxation, their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay over eight per cent. interest in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of United States Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities only, is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

The fact that all duties on imports are payable in specie furnishes a fund for like payment of interest on all Government Bonds largely in excess of the wants of the treasury for this purpose.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurers at New-York, Boston and Philadelphia, and by the First National Bank of New-York, No. 4 Wall-st.

DIABETES.

STONE IN THE BLADDER, CALCULUS, GRAVEL BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, CATARRH OF THE BLADDER.

STRANGUARY AND BURNING, OR PAINFUL URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms.

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through the hips? A teaspoonful a day of the Constitution Water will relieve you like magic.

PHYSICIANS

have long since given up the use of buchu, cubebs and juniper in the treatment of these diseases, and only use them for the want of a better remedy.

CONSTITUTION WATER

has proved itself equal to the task that has devolved upon it.

DIURETICS

irritate and drench the kidneys, and by constant use soon lead to chronic degeneration and confirmed disease.

We present the Constitution Water to the public, with the conviction that it has no equal in relieving the class of diseases for which it has been found so eminently successful for curing; and we trust that we shall be rewarded for our efforts in placing so valuable a remedy in a form to meet the requirements of patient and physician.

IN DYSMENORRHŒA, OR PAINFUL MENSTRUATION, AND MENORRHAGIA, OR PROFUSE FLOWING.

Both diseases arising from a faulty secretion of the menstrual fluid—in one case being too little, and accompanied by severe pain, and the other a too profuse secretion, which will be speedily cured by the Constitution Water.

That disease known as FALLING OF THE WOMB, which is the result of a relaxation of the ligaments of that organ, and is known by a sense of heaviness and dragging pains in the back and sides, and at times accompanied by sharp, lancinating or shooting pains through the parts, will, in all cases, be removed by the medicine.

There is another class of symptoms arising from IRRITATION OF THE WOMB, which physicians call Nervousness, which word covers up much ignorance, and in nine cases out of ten the doctor does not really know whether the symptoms are the disease or the disease the symptoms. We can only enumerate them here. I speak more particularly of Cold Feet, Palpitation of the Heart, Imperfect Memory, Wakefulness, Flashes of Heat, Languor, Lassitude and Dimness of Vision.

SUPPRESSED MENSTRUATION,

Which, in the unmarried female, is a constant recurring disease, and through neglect the seeds of more grave and dangerous maladies are the result; and as month after month passes without an effort being made to assist nature, the suppression becomes chronic, the patient gradually losses her appetite, the bowels are constipated, night sweats come on, and consumption finally ends her career.

THE CASE OF HUTCHINGS, THE "LIGHTNING CALCULATOR."

There was published in these columns a few days since the remarkable cure of Hutchings, the "Lightning Calculator," so well known to the public during the many years he exhibited his wonderful arithmetical powers at Barnum's Museum, by the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Hutchings is represented to have been at the point of death, and but for the timely interference of the Doctor, would now be resting in his grave. This is a remarkable case, and worthy of the attention of persons similarly afflicted.

We think it is but just to Doctor Von Eisenberg to call public attention to this case. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, who, like the "Lightning Calculator," if not actually praying for death, are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is within his power to make them whole or not.

EARS TO THE DEAF.

Every man, and especially every woman, believes in his or her physician. There are philosophical minds which hold to an abstract faith in Allopathy, or Homeopathy, or Hydropathy, or some other form of scientific cure; but with the world at large the belief is not in the system, but in the doctor. Especially is this true as regards aurists and oculists. The patient who has recovered his sight or his hearing is sure that the blessing could have been restored to him by no other practitioner than that particular one by whom his eyes or ears were opened. Dr. Von Eisenberg is among our best-known aurists. He has not lent us ears as a brother practitioner has eyes, and in whose skill, therefore, we believe above all others. But we hear of him from those who esteem him not merely as a surgeon, but as a benefactor. A recent case has been related to us, for the truthfulness of which we can vouch, though we can name no names. The patient was a lady who had been deaf from infancy, as a consequence of some of the ailments to which children are liable. Latterly the disease had taken an acute form, and the patient was subject to intense suffering. The deafness was rapidly becoming complete, and the general health breaking down under the physical exhaustion attendant upon constant pain. Ordinary remedies and ordinary advice were useless, and Dr. Von Eisenberg was called in. We need not repeat his diagnosis, for that would be only a list of hard names to the general reader. But he detected at sight the seat of disease, first in one portion of the organism, then in another, and with manipulation as skillful as his insight was accurate, he removed the causes, and she who, from infancy, had heard with difficulty, and latterly hardly at all, was restored first to perfect hearing and then to perfect health. Dr. Von Eisenberg's advertisement reminds us of this case, which we thus briefly relate, though not at his solicitation. Let him that hath not ears, hear.

SIGHT RESTORED.

CONCERNING EYES AND OCULISTS.

Of the five senses, that which we call seeing is the most important and most valued. In proportion as this sense fails us, we are reduced to helplessness. If entirely destitute of sight, how slow would be our progress in knowledge, and how limited our sphere of action and usefulness. Endowed with it, the universe becomes a new creation, clothed with beauty and diversified by that infinite variety which never fails to attract the mind and heart.

For several months past this has been a practical subject to us. An inflamed condition of the eyelids communicating itself to the pupil, rendered the discharge of daily duties not only painful, but dangerous. Attributing it to the effect of a cold, we endured it through the Spring, with the hope that with the return of warm weather it would entirely disappear. But in this we were doomed to disappointment. Summer returned, but not our wonted sight. What might have been the result, either of further neglect or of incompetent treatment, we cannot say.

Stating our case to a friend, he assured us that a similar one in his own family had recently been treated with entire success by Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Satisfying ourselves by more particular inquiries that the doctor is no empiric, but a scientific oculist and aurist, we concluded to seek the benefits of his treatment, which we have now reason to acknowledge is very great. Though but a few weeks under his care, the appearance of our eyes has totally changed. The pupil is now full and clear, and the lids are entirely free from inflammation. The doctor says that the optic nerve has been weakened and the retina assumed a chronic inflammatory state, affecting more or less all the other tissues, and threatening, if neglected, to end in Amaurosis. Opthalmitis, is the term we believe, which oculists apply to eyes affected as were ours. Having obtained the much desired relief, we take great pleasure in acknowledging our indebtedness to the talent of Dr. Von Eisenberg, and of calling to it the attention of others who may be suffering from a similar or even worse condition of their eyes. It is said that Providence provides an antidote for every bane. It is certain that the eye is, in these times, subject to severer trials than formerly. Let us be thankful, then, that as we increase the tendencies which destroy the organ of vision, the progress of science keeps pace with these tendencies, if not in advance of them.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1864.

A NEW AND GREAT INVENTION IN HOOP SKIRTS.
THE DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE) STEEL SPRING.
J. I. & J. O. WEST, NO. 97 CHAMBERS-ST., NEW-YORK,
Are the owners of the patent and exclusive manufacturers of this.
J. W. BRADLEY'S
PATENTED DUPLEX ELLIPTIC STEEL SPRING SKIRTS.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most elastic, flexible and durable spring ever used, enabling the wearer, in consequence of its great elasticity and flexibleness, to place and fold the skirt when in use as easily and with the same convenience as a silk or muslin dress. It entirely obviates and silences the only objections to hoop skirts, viz.: the annoyance to the wearer as well as the public, especially in crowded assemblies, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, or in any crowded place from the difficulty of contracting them to occupying a small space. This entirely removes the difficulty, while giving the skirt the usual full and symmetrical form, and is the lightest and most stylish and graceful appearance for the street, opera, promenade or house dress. A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterward willingly dispense with the use of them. They are the best quality in every part, and by far the lightest, most durable, comfortable and economical skirt made. Merchants will be supplied as above, and ladies in most first-class retail stores in this City and throughout the different States.

MEDICAL.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 50 Lispenard-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st. Call, send, or write.

$1,000 FORFEITED AND NO CHARGE UNLESS CURED.—Dr. Hunter's Red Drop cures venereal diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury; but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless this remedy is used. This is what he claims for it; and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known that scientific men, in every department of medical knowledge, begin to appreciate it; for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division st., New-York City, since 1834. Eight separate rooms and a private entrance. A ten cent bill will secure the Monitor of Health by return mail.

MEETINGS.

AT A MEETING OF THE PASSENGERS on board the U. S. Transport Merrimac, April 30 1864, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we express our appreciation of the thorough sea-going qualities and excellent and complete appointments and accommodations of the U. S. steam transport Merrimac, and add our belief that but for the detention by rough weather off Hatteras, her present trip from New-Orleans to New-York would have been one of the shortest on record.

Resolved, That to our knowledge of Capt. FREDERICK A. SAMPSON's qualifications as a first-class Commander, we give our cordial thanks for his watchfulness and constant care in every detail pertaining to the ship, and for his unvarying politeness, courtesy and attention to the comfort of all who were under his care on board.

Resolved, That we testify our full appreciation of the excellence in their respective positions and professions of First Officer, JAMES B. GORDON and Chief Engineer RICHARD LAVARY, and that we tender our warmest thanks to Purser GEORGE H. GREEN, for his unceasing efforts to make every one on board completely "at home," and to Steward J. A. HUNT for his well-served, well-appointed and most excellent table.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the New-York Herald and TIMES, Boston Journal and Post.

ONE DAY LATER FROM EUROPE.

The Belgian off Port Au Basque—The Garibaldi Fever—Efforts to Induce Him to Remain—Particulars of the Fall of Duppel.

PORT AU BASQUE, N. F., Monday, May 2.

The steamship Belgian, (formerly the Hammonia,) which left Liverpool at 3 P. M. of the 21st and Londonderry 22d ult., passed here at 7 o'clock this (Monday) morning, en route to Portland.

The inquiry into the loss of the Bohemian, off Portland, was progressing at Liverpool.

THE GARIBALDI EXCITEMENT.

The GARIBALDI fever continued in London. Strong assertions continued to be made that a Government pressure had been exerted to bring about his departure from England, ministerial denials to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Paris Moniteur contradicts the rumor that his visit was to be cut short at the instigation of the French Emperor.

The GARIBALDI Committee had resolved to ask the General to rest awhile, and then visit six or eight of the principal provincial towns, and a deputation presented this request, and were so far successful, that the General agreed to reconsider his determination, and said he much desired to visit old friends at Newcastle and the North. This definite determination would be announced on the 21st.

The freedom of the City of London was formally presented to GARIBALDI at Guildhall on the 20th. He made a speech, expressing the deepest gratitude of himself and Italy to the English nation. His reception in the city was most enthusiastic. In the evening he was the guest of Mr. GLADSTONE, who gave a brilliant entertainment.

A preliminary meeting at the Duke of Sutherland's, to raise a fund to secure a permanent income to the General and family, resulted in £2,000 being subscribed on the spot.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

The Parliamentary proceedings on the 20th were unimportant.

The King of the Belgians had quitted England for home.

The English court had gone to Osborne.

The rumor that it is the intention of the Earl of Carlisle to retire from the Lord-Lieutenancy of Ireland is pronounced unfounded.

A National Reform Conference had been in session at Manchester.

THE FALL OF DUPPEL.

The Danish account of the fall of Duppel says the terrible fire from the Prussian artillery destroyed redoubts Nos. 4, 5 and 6, which were then taken by the enemy. The left wing of the Duppel position was consequently given up, and the Danish troops were compelled to fall back with great loss. The evacuation of the right wing took place under more favorable circumstances, but also with considerable loss.

The greater part of four regiments was annihilated. The tête du pont was demolished by the Prussian artillery, but was defended until the Danish army had crossed to the island of Alsen. The Prussians captured 2,000 Danes, 400 officers and 90 guns.

The Emperor and Empress of Mexico left Rome on the 20th, for Cevita Vecchia, to embark for Mexico. They had an audience of the Pope on the 19th, and His Holiness returned the visit. They attended mass at the Vatican before leaving.

Military Parade in Central Park.

VIOLATION OF THE RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The following are the ordinances in force on the Central Park:

"All persons are forbidden to carry firearms, or to throw stones or other missels within it.

No person shall, without the consent of the Comptroller of the Park, play upon any musical instrument within the Central Park, any flag, banner, target or transparency.

No military or target company, or civic or other procession shall be permitted to parade, drill or perform upon the Central Park, any military or other evolutions or movements."

On Thursday last, the Eleventh Regiment, Col. MAIDHOFF, approached the Fifth-avenue entrance of the Park with drums and arms. The gate-keeper informed the officer in command of the laws of the Park against carrying firearms and parading. He was also informed by the park-keepers on the drive, of the regulations of the Park, and was requested to leave by one of the assistant-sergeants; this he declined to do, but proceed with his regiment across the borders and walk, on to the newly springing grass, where he paraded his men, driving his horse over the turf, doing much injury thereto. It seems, therefore, that this was a willful violation of the laws of the Park. Ignorance of the laws cannot be alleged, because these laws have been widely published in the newspapers, and the Colonel was distinctly informed, first, at the entrance, of the Park, of the rules, secondly, by the Assistant-Sergeant of the Park force. No great courage was required to defy the protests of the few gentlemanly policemen and violate the rules and regulations by Col. MAIDHOFF; he was numerically overwhelmingly supported in the defiance and violation. And again, the Commissioners have had no reason to apprehend or prepare for either. Of the hundreds of thousands of people of all grades of propriety, intelligence and position to the Park, Col. MAIDHOFF is the first one who has purposely, deliberately violated the rules and set an example for overriding them. If the reputation in consequence is an enviable one, it is difficult to so see it, and it is to be hoped that others of the National Guard will not stain their colors by emulating his example,—as in a morning paper it has been intimated they may. Leave him alone in his glory. This, as has been said, is the first instance from high or low, rich or poor, from the most polished and orderly to the most depraved and rough, of a violation of the rules and regulations for the care and preservation of our beautiful Park. If Col. MAIDHOFF knows the duty of an officer, he knows that the very first and highest is obedience to law and the love and preservation of order. If he does properly he so instructs his men, and yet he has on a Spring parade set an example of flagrant violation.

The public and the Commissioners protest against the infraction of the law, and the punishment will be left with the proper tribunal. If military commanders are of the opinion that a parade ground should be provided on the Park, they can undoubtedly convince the authorities in charge of the Park of this necessity; if they cannot, then it would be well to submit to the inconvenience, and avoid the example of lawlessness that may be destructive to the order that has thus far prevailed at the Park. No officer is justified in taking his men therein, and none that rightly appreciate their position will do so.

The above suggestions are not directed to the questions whether there should be a parade ground on the Park, that is a matter of opinion. That there should be a parade ground for our military somewhere, there is no question, but where it should be is matter for the decision of the constituted authorities. It is understood that this subject has been one to which the Commissioners of the Park have given much attention; they have undoubtedly looked at the question on all its bearings and whatever conclusion they may have arrived at will be likely to have great weight with the community.

Annual Election of Trustees of the Produce Exchange.

The annual election of Trustees of the Produce Exchange Company took place on Monday, May 2. There were three tickets in circulation. The polls were open from noon till 2 o'clock P. M. The voting, however, passed off very quietly. The following was the successful ticket: For Trustees.—William H. Newman John B. Wright, Stephen D. Harrison, Samuel Nimmons, George D. Cragin, Robert J. Randolph, Francis M. French, Edward Cromwell, Peter Rice. For Inspectors of next Election.—Robert J. Holt, Benjamin C. Bogert, E. A. Tompkins.

The New-York Commercial Association, which uses and controls the main floor of the Produce Exchange for business purposes, has had the annual subscription fee of each member advanced from $20 to $25. The business floor, though very spacious, has been inadequate to the requirements of the Association, and it is generally conceded that an additional room must soon be provided for the accommodation of the dense crowd of merchants who now meet there for the transaction of business.

It has been discovered that the hours of business at the Produce Exchange cannot be changed, without a revision of the bye-laws of the Commercial Association, which will require thirty days to complete, legally. It is not intended, however, to abandon the movement in favor of an early adjournment of each day's session; but, on the contrary, the great majority of the members of the Association have resolved to push on the reform to a successful issue.

Obsequies of Commodore Porter.

The City authorities have taken action in regard to the decease of Commodore WILLIAM D. PORTER, as we suggested yesterday they should, and there will be appropriate public funeral honors. The remains will lie in state at the Governor's Room today, and until to-morrow afternoon, when the funeral will take place.

Aid for East Tennessee Orphans.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The Children's Aid Society of this city have been requested by the Secretary of the Christian Commission in East Tennessee, Rev. E. P. SMITH, to provide homes in the West for about fifty orphan children of East Tennessee made orphans by the calamities of this war. They are the sons and daughters of those faithful loyalists who have lost everything for their country. Their unhappy condition appeals to every lover of the Union, and especially to those of us who have escaped the most serious losses and evils of the war. They are the children of the nation. They need, above all, good and kind homes in which to grow up.

This society are not permitted by their charter, which limits their work to the children of New-York and vicinity, to appropriate their own funds for the aid of these children, but they will gladly offer their machinery for such an act of humanity. They accordingly ask from the public liberal donations, to be used for the food, clothing and care of these children, the expenses of the journey, and of watching over their welfare in the future. They propose, about the 11th of May, to send out their experienced Western Agent, Mr. TRACY, to meet this little company of American orphans, and to place them in the best Western homes open to them. Donations may be sent to the Treasurer, J. E. WILLIAMS, Metropolitan Bank, or to the President, WM. A. BOOTH, No. 95 Front-street, or to the Secretary, C. L. BRACE, Clinton Hall, Astor-place.

DEATH OF THE FAMOUS TROTTING STALLION, GEO. M. PATCHEN.

This celebrated trotting stallion died quite unexpectedly, at four o'clock on Sunday, at JOHN J. SNEDIKER'S, adjacent to the Union Course, Long Island—his death being caused by rupture. Patchen was about fourteen years old. He was sired by Cassius M. Clay, his dam being a mare owned by Mr. GEORGE M. PATCHEN, of Brooklyn, by imported Trustee; hence the name he bore. The stallion was in training at the time of his decease, (under DAN PFIFER,) although he had no immediate engagements on hand. As a trotter he was scarcely inferior to any that has appeared on the trotting turf; and it was as much as its queen "Flora Temple" could do, with her indomitable speed and courage, to obtain the best of him in their several contests. Patchen possessed great size, power, and substantial solidity, and when put to it had a fine slashing style of going. He will prove a great loss to the trotting turf, as well as his owner, (Mr. WALTERMIRE,) who, it is reported, only recently refused $22,000 for him.

Case of Contempt.

In the Surrogate's Court, yesterday morning, Surrogate TUCKER committed William Fullerton, Esq., a prominent member of the New-York bar, for a contempt of court. It appears that while the Surrogate was trying a case, Mr. Fullerton occupied the floor, and insisted upon being heard in another matter not then before the court. His Honor required him to sit down, but he persisted in being heard, using expressions that the court deemed contemptuous. The Surrogate, believing that he had power to punish as for a contempt any persistent interruption that interfered with the business of the court, issued an attachment, and directed that Mr. Fullerton be punished by a fine of $50 and imprisonment for two days.

A CARD.

In the Matter of the Application for the Appointment of a Collector for the Estate of Abraham R. Laurence, deceased:

Having been present this morning in the Surrogate's Court, and witnessed what took place in the above proceeding which the Hon. Gideon J. Tucker has construed into a contempt, we deem it our duty to say that the conduct of Mr. Fullerton was in our judgment entirely consistent with his professional duty. If he had done less he would have failed in a manifest obligation to his clients.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

EXPERIENCES OF A PIANO-FORTE MANUFACTURER IN THE SOUTH.—Mr. POISSON, formerly well known as a manufacturer of piano-fortes, has returned to this City, after a residence of several years in North Carolina, and advertises in another column his intention to resume his old business at No. 478 Broadway. Mr. POISSON escaped from JEFF. DAVIS' dominions several weeks ago, and brings with him some relics and reminiscences of his experiences while there. He wears a dilapidated pair of boots, the mere footing of which cost him over three hundred dollars. To offset this, however, and to show that although the rebels are fit for "treason, stratagem and spoils," they still have some "music in their souls," he states that he received fifty dollars apiece for tuning pianos, and that the market price of inferior instruments at the time he left the South was three thousand dollars—in rebel currency, of course.

THE AUCTION SALE OF THE BUILDINGS, FIXTURES, &C., OF THE METROPOLITAN FAIR.—Yesterday morning the buildings, fixtures, and a large quantity of unsold goods, belonging to the Metropolitan Fair Association, were sold at public auction. The following are the prices paid for some of the principal articles: Skylight over arms and trophies, $150; Indian department and police office, $280; main entrance, $430; plank sidewalk, Fourteenth-street, $175; platform in carriage-house, $7; passage to carriage-house, $8; counters, restaurant, &c., $27; counters, second-story restaurant, $23; tables in restaurant, $23; kitchen of restaurant, $30; machine building and ship building, except the paneled wainscoating and felt roofing, $625; cattle shed and stalls north side of Fifteenth-street, $290; wood furniture of millinery room, nineteen plain stands, $70; paneled wainscoat around ship-building hall, $32 50.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—BEFORE RECORDER HOFFMAN.—The Court opened for the Term yesterday morning, and the following named gentlemen were empannelled as a Grand Jury for May: Joseph M. Cooper, foreman; Aaron L. Brown, Enoch Chamberlain, James H. Cook, Jr., Aaron Close, Edward S. Clark, Nicholas H. Decker, Albert L. Eastman, Francis P. Turnald, Harrison D. Hurst, Fletcher Harper, Jr., Abraham Knapp, William E. Lawrence, William Lynch, Samuel C. Maddon, Samuel Reeve, Charles Smithson, John D. Scott, James L. Todd. His Honor charged them on the usual topics, and they entered upon the discharge of their duties. It being May Day, the Court adjourned until Wednesday morning.

THE INCOME TAX.—It should be borne in mind by all parties liable to pay an income tax under the United States Revenue law, that no notice is required to be given to such persons by the provisions of the excise law; and the practice hitherto pursued of giving notice has been a mere voluntary act on the part of the Assessor. Hence failure to receive notice will not be a sufficient excuse on the part of delinquents for avoiding the penalty of 50 per cent. imposed by law.

RIVER NAVIGATION.—Although River Navigation has been open some time, it was not until quite recently many of the boats intended for transportation of freight exclusively, have been brought into requisition. The delay was occasioned by the difficulty of getting shipcarpenters to complete new boats and repair old ones.

THE STEAMER MERRIMAC.—The passengers by the steamer Merrimac, which arrived at this port from New-Orleans on Saturday afternoon, held a meeting just before the vessel reached her destination, at which resolutions highly complimentary to the Captain and officers were passed. They will be found in full in our advertising columns.

THE CITY DIRECTORY.—Mr. J. F. TROW yesterday commenced the collection of information preparatory to the compilation of the City Directory for 1864–65. Mr. H. WILSON has charge of the work, as usual, and citizens will greatly expedite matters if they will be prepared to give the desired information to the canvassers promptly and fully.

Dr. Von Eisenberg.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH.

No. 23 FORSYTH-ST., NEW-YORK, Oct. 1, 1863.

Dr. Von Eisenberg:

DEAR SIR: Without recapitulating the numerous benefits I have received through your wonderful cure of the deafness I have labored under many years, the blessings I enjoy will convince the most skeptical.

I have tried many aurists, in Europe and America, without success. I was still deaf as a post.

Three years ago I entered your office, underwent one operation, hoping, yet doubting, I should receive any relief, but was agreeably disappointed in finding the genius of your profession.

The innate skill you possess cured my deafness in one almost painless operation.

The joy I experienced was indescribable; 'twas a new life to me.

My hearing is perfect to this day.

I strongly advise all who are suffering undera difficulty of hearing, or total deafness, to consult you immediately, as I also personally recommend all who apply to me. The numerous calls trespass on my time and patience, yet, remembering my own long, weary affliction causes me to pity them.

This is not written to advertise your well-known, unrivaled reputation—that would be peurile; but as a measure of precaution, to induce all to call on you at once, without troubling me; yet I do not refuse to see any one who comes to me. This is the only way I can show my gratitude.

I also call the attention of those who are suffering from Catarrh, which disease I have labored under one year or more.

I experienced difficulty in breathing, langour, heaviness over the eyes, a sense of tightness on the brain, and copious expectorations of a hard and viscid nature. Accompanying this is a "polypus," quite filling the right nostril. On the 25th ult. you operated on both, killing the polypus, which is gradually passing away, and giving me great relief from the Catarrh. One more operation will effectually cure.

This testimonial brings with it my unalloyed and grateful thanks, with but a poor delineation of your wondrous skill as an Aurist.

I am, Sir, yours very gratefully,
EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED"
COMPOUND
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
a positive and Specific Remedy for Diseases of the BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This medicine increases the power of digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the water or calcerous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements, are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for Men, Women, or Children.

H

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For weaknesses arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse, attended with the following symptoms:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System.	Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follow

IMPOTENCY, FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS.

In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION!

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane Asylums and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

THE CONSTITUTION ONCE AFFECTED BY ORGANIC WEKNESS

requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most skeptical.

It causes frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing obstructions, preventing and curing strictures of the urethra, allaying pain and inflammation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling POISONOUS, DISEASED AND WORN-OUT MATTER.

Thousands upon thousands who have been the VICTIMS OF QUACKS, and who have paid HEAVY FEES to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in an aggravated form, and,

A Protest Against Dividing Loyal Men by Untimely Issues.

Speech of Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin, on the Issues Before the Country.

In the United States Senate on the 27th ult., while the subject of insisting on the Senate's amendments to the bill providing a Territorial Government for Montana, which the House had rejected, was pending, Senator DOOLITTLE, of Wisconsin, made the following remarks:

Mr. PRESIDENT, I certainly do not object to a free conference upon the disagreeing votes between the two Houses. This bill originated in the House of Representatives. It came from the Committee on Territories, of which Mr. ASHLEY, a distinguished gentleman from the State of Ohio, is chairman—a gentleman no less distinguished for his great legal ability than for his earnest and untiring devotion to the cause of human liberty and to the preservation of the Union. The bill, in accordance with all precedent from the beginning of the Government down to the present hour, limited the right of suffrage to the white men; to men of the Caucasian race. In this form the bill passed the House of Representatives without division. It may be said to have received the unanimous sanction of that body. It came to the Senate, was referred to the Committee on Territories, over which the distinguished Senator from Ohio presides, than whom there is no man in this body, in the other House, or in the whole country, more devoted to the cause of liberty and to defend the rights of the oppressed African race. I refer to Senator WADE, from Ohio. From that committee the bill was reported to this body without any amendment. It was called up to be put on its passage; was just ready to pass; and, doubtless, would have received the unanimous vote of the Senate but for the fact that my honorable friend from Minnesota (Mr. WILKINSON) deemed it his duty, upon his responsibility as a Senator, to introduce and carry through the Senate an amendment which it is claimed will extend the right of suffrage to colored men of African, and, perhaps, of Indian descent. The House of Representatives has disagreed; still insists upon its disagreement; and now asks the Senate to appoint a committee of free conference on the subject.

For myself, so far as this Territory of Montano is concerned, I care but very little in which form the bill shall pass, whether in the form proposed by the Senator from Minnesota, or in the form proposed by the Committee on Territories of the House, sanctioned by that House and sanctioned by the Committee of this body; but, Sir, that against which I enter my most earnest protest is the raising of this new issue, in form or in substance, out of this controversy between the two Houses; against throwing that issue, at this time and in the present state of the country, as a new element to inflame and embitter the great controversy to come off in the coming Presidential election; I mean the issue of negro suffrage. Although perhaps in the form of the words employed this issue is not, necessarily, involved, yet it is so generally understood throughout the country by the press and by the people.

From my friendship and my high respect for the honorable member from Minnesota, I have every reason to know that he was actuated only by the highest and most patriotic considerations; but with all my respect for him I must be permitted to say that, in my judgment, he has raised an issue unnecessarily—an issue which, if it be persisted in, will of necessity be involved in and would control the result of the coming Presidential contest. I say this issue is altogether unnecessary. So far as it attempts to establish negro suffrage in the Territory of Montana, it is wholly impracticable; for I now repeat what I said the other day, there is not one single person of African descent known to be within that Territory. I know my friend from Minnesota, on information received from a gentleman by the name of LANGFORD, long a resident of that Territory, said there was one person of African descent there, and he was worth $50,000. Mr. LANGFORD happened to be in the gallery when that statement was made by the honorable Senator from Minnesota. He at once sent his card to an honorable member upon this floor, sought an introduction, and informed him that there was, it is true, at one time one person of African descent in that Territory, and he was the fortunate discoverer of a mine estimated by some to be worth $50,000; but that he is dead, and now there is not one single person of African descent in the proposed Territory of Montana. I repeat, therefore, so far as concerns the extension of suffrage to persons of African descent, this proposition is the merest abstraction in the world.

But there are other persons in that Territory, other colored men, men of Indian descent, who, under this amendment of the Senator from Minnesota, might, I do not say they practically would, but might be embraced within its provisions. There are, perhaps, five thousand persons of Indian descent within this proposed Territory. Under the provisions of the Senate amendment it might occur that these Indians would declare their intention to become citizens of the United States, and thereby become entitled to the right of suffrage within this Territory. I do not say I think they would, or that it is probable they would, but they might.

Mr. WILKINSON—With the Senator's permission, I wish to ask him if Indians can become citizens of the United States under our naturalization laws by complying with the provisions, by declaring their intention and taking the oath, &c.

Mr. DOOLITTLE—That is a disputed question of law, upon which persons take different sides, as they do about the Chinese, the Malays and all the red and yellow races; Chancellor KENT, if I recollect aright, taking the ground that they are not capable of becoming naturalized. I will not enter into its discussion now. But this thing, which, although not probable, is nevertheless possible, might actually take place within this Territory. The history of what occurred in the State of Minnesota, in one of its far off election districts, at Pembina, ought to warn us of what might possibly occur under the lead of designing demagogues who, to carry an election, use any means, right or wrong, in their power. By the Constitution of Minnesota, while negroes and persons of African descent are excluded from the right of suffrage, Indians who have adopted the habits of civilized life are permitted to exercise that right. At the first election in that new State, at the Pembina district, it is said not only Indians who had adopted the habits of civilized life, but wild blanket Indians of the woods, were led to the polls, to exercise the right of suffrage under the manipulation of these demagogues. It was a very simple operation for those designing men, with a few suits of clothes, hats, coats and pants, and plenty of whisky and tobacco, to strip the wild Indian of his blanket, clothe him in the habiliments and addict him to some of the habits of civilized life, and to bring him, thus arrayed and addicted, forward to the polls to deposit his ballot, to return again to the woods to exchange the civilized costume for the savage costume of another wild Indian, to be led to the polls to repeat the same operation.

Now, I do not undertake to say that in my opinion such a thing would occur in the Territory of Montana; but inasmuch as it did once occur in the State of Minnesota, I say that it might occur even in the Territory of Montana if there was a fiercely contested election in which great interest was felt by those who without scruple sometimes undertake to carry an election by any means, fair or foul.

So far, then, as this amendment of the Senate extends any right of suffrage to persons of African descent in the Territory of Montana, it is a mere abstraction, and in whichever form the bill shall pass it will have no effect whatever in the Territory. The question then, perhaps, may be asked, "Why do you oppose the assertion of an abstraction, or the raising of an abstract issue, which can have no application?" I answer, because all history teaches us that upon mere abstractions, which have no practical application, sometimes the fiercest and most bitter controversies arise, whether in the religious, the political, or even in the scientific world. Who has forgotten that it was the assertion of an abstraction in the change of the sound of a single vowel in one Greek word, whether it should be pronounced "Homoousion" or "Homoiousion," the shade of difference between just like and almost like, that divided the religious world, produced a controversy for ages, and sometimes bathed its sacred altars in human blood? Who has forgotten that it was the assertion by Mr. CALHOUN of the abstract proposition, "Slavery is a blessing," "Slavery is a divine institution," which has been the cause of this very war in which we are now engaged? Philosophically speaking, it was this dogma of his, asserted, persisted in, carried into and triumphing at last in the schools, the press, the legislative halls of the South, which made Slavery aggressive, and at last forced upon Congress, upon the President, and upon the Supreme Court, that policy and those measures which have launched us upon a sea of troubles, and plunged our beloved country into this terrible struggle of blood, agony and tears.

Following his dogma came the assertion in the Dred Scott decision of the abstract right to take slaves into all the Territories of the Union. The assertion of the same abstract right to take slaves into the Territory repealed the Missouri compromise, the blow which opened this civil strife, in my judgment, the immediate cause of this war, the fatal tempter, which, entering into our peaceful paradise, brought "death and all our woe."

Mr. President, you will understand me. I do not propose to enter upon the discussion of the question of the propriety of negro sufferage: not at all. I pro-

goes to show that now is no time to raise that question or to discuss it. I will only say that, in my judgment, this question properly belongs to the States.

Mr. SUMNER—Mr. President, with the permission of the Senator from Wisconsin, I move that the Senate take a recess for half an hour. It is evident there is not a quorum here at this moment.

[The passage of Gen. BURNSIDE's Army Corps at this time in the streets interrupted proceedings.]

The motion was agreed to; and at the expiration of the time the Senate was again called to order, and resumed the consideration of the Montana Bill.

Mr. DOOLITTLE—Mr. President, I said that I did not intend to enter upon the discussion of the question of the propriety of negro suffrage. I can very well understand how it is that in the New-England States, where there are very few persons of African descent; where they are generally educated or tolerably well educated; where, from their modes of life and association with the most thrifty and intelligent people in the world, they become entirely competent to discharge the duties of electors, the people of New-England under those circumstances, can and do, and may very properly extend the right of suffrage to persons of African descent. In the State of New-York, where there are more persons of this description, I can very well understand how the people of that State do, and properly may, in their organic law, give the right of suffrage to this class of people with a qualification. The Constitution of New-York, therefore, requires such a property qualification as shall demonstrate their competency, at least, to take care of themselves. It requires them to be worth the sum of $250. When you come to the State of Pennsylvania, where there is a still larger number of these people, I can also very well understand why it is the people of Pennsylvania in their Constitution may think proper to exclude from the right of suffrage this class of persons altogether. So, too, in the State of New-Jersey. In the State of Ohio—and Ohio is certainly to be regarded as one of the most earnest of all the Republican States, devoted to the maintenance of the Republic and to the cause of human liberty—the Constitution restricts the right of suffrage to white male citizens. I read the language of the Constitution of Ohio: "Every white male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the State one year next preceding the election," &c., "shall be entitled to exercise the right of suffrage;" and under this provision it has been decided in that State that the offspring of a white man and a half-breed Indian woman is entitled to vote. Being more than one-half white entitles him to the privilege of this constitutional amendment.

In the State of Indiana the Constitution and laws are still more stringent against extending the right of suffrage to persons of African descent; while in the great State of Illinois, one of the greatest among the great States of the West, in the adoption of a new Constitution not long since, the people by a most overwhelming majority decided against the extension of the right of suffrage to persons of African descent.

In the great State of New-York, where this question was submitted by itself, distinctly unconnected with any party or any other question, the question of the extension of universal negro suffrage pure and simple, the people of that State by a majority of one hundred and ninety thousand decided against extending it beyond what it now is in the Constitution of that State with its qualification.

Mr. MORRILL—Will the Senator allow me to ask him when that was?

Mr. DOOLITTLE—About 1842 or 1843, I think.

Mr. MORRILL—Was that on an amendment of the Constitution?

Mr. DOOLITTLE—The question was submitted distinctly by itself on a proposed amendment of the Constitution.

Mr. MORRILL—The Senator must be aware that by the first Constitution of the State of New-York there was no distinction on account of color.

Mr. DOOLITTLE—It was since the Constitution of 1821; in the Constitution adopted about——

Mr. MORGAN—1846.

Mr. DOOLITTLE—About 1846. I remember it very well, for I was then a resident of the State of New-York.

Now, Mr. President, how is it with the free State of West Virginia, with a Constitution recently adopted, a State which has given freedom to all persons of African descent? By a constitutional provision of that State, they restrict the right of suffrage to white male citizens. In Wisconsin, where there are much fewer persons of this description than there are in the States bordering on the Ohio River, and where our people would have much less objection to the extension of the right of suffrage than they would in many of these other States, colored persons are not allowed to vote. In our State the question has been twice submitted, and twice have the people voted against it by large and decisive majorities; and yet the State of Wisconsin itself would have less repugnance and opposition to the adoption of such a measure than many of the other States.

If the question were submitted to me in any given State, for instance, in the State of Wisconsin, if I were there and the question were submitted to me, and I was called upon to vote on it, without now discussing the propriety of voting for or against the extension of negro suffrage in the State of Wisconsin, I could very properly and very consistently vote for it. In the State of New-York, when the question was up and discussed as a practical question addressed to the citizens of New York, I did vote for it as a citizen of that State. But, Sir, that is not the question at all. The question is, shall we now raise this new issue; shall we put this among other issues into the great contest which is immediately before us? ["Never!" from the galleries.]

Mr. SUMNER—Order! order!

The Presiding Officer—Order!

Mr. DOOLITTLE—I will not say the time will never come when this race, to which personal freedom is, as I believe, surely coming, as the result of this war, and by that amendment of the Constitution of the United States which I trust in God two-thirds of Congress and the people of three-fourths of the States are about to adopt, may be educated up to the point where it would be proper to extend to them the right of suffrage in all the States; but that time has not yet come. In those States where the shackles of Slavery are just struck off from hundreds and thousands of these persons, we must wait the development of events and time; wait till they have exercised and enjoyed their freedom; wait till they shall have shown themselves capable of discharging the duties and bearing the responsibilities of good citizens before we declare in favor of any such proposition; and, besides, this question must be passed upon by each State for itself. If there be one right which belongs to a State in its capacity as an independent State in this Union, it is its right to prescribe the qualification of its own electors; of those who have the right to cast its suffrages. The time may come when the States may properly enact laws providing that persons of African descent who shall have faithfully served in the armies of the country, and fought the battles of the Union, and shown themselves to be good soldiers, may be entitled to the enjoyment of this right. The time may come when, before some competent court or tribunal, persons of African descent may be permitted, on showing themselves sufficiently well educated, or that for a given number of years as heads of families they have supported themselves and taken care of their families, or, upon some other proper terms, may be admitted to the right of suffrage. I will not say these things will not come; at all events, it is my solemn belief that of all things the most unwise we could now enter upon is for the Congress, composed of members and Senators representing States and districts—a large majority of whose people in their constitutions deny the right of negro suffrage within their own States—to pass a law here, or in any other form to declare and to extend to negroes the right of suffrage in the territories of the United States, or in the District of Columbia, or wherever we have power to legislate.

Sir, we have upon our hands issues enough. The single issue of this great war is enough. It is all the human mind can grasp, and more than any yet have been able to resolve. This gigantic struggle is to determine whether Republican government shall live or die; whether a constitutional form of government, resting upon the people for its support, can be maintained, or must perish forever; whether the union of these States is to be continued or broken; whether we are to maintain our own rights and liberties as free citizens of this great Republic under the Constitution of the United States, or succumb to rebellion, conspiracy, and military despotism. From the course of events, from military necessity in the prosecution of this war, and, as it seems to me—I say it with reverence—by Providential dispensation, the existence of Slavery has become involved in this contest. The prosecution of this war to a final triumph on the part of the United States will of necessity destroy Slavery within all those States in rebellion against the Government. These issues are large enough and broad enough to demand all our time and all our energies, all our means, our whole might, mind and strength to accomplish that great purpose.

What is the state of the country? We are engaged in a war which has no parallel in human history. This whole country, from Maine to the Rio Grande, trembles under the tread of armed men. One of our great corps d' armee, under Gen. BURNSIDE is this moment passing through the streets of Washington, marching across the Potomac to engage in the greatest battle this continent or the world has seen for two generations; and on the result of which, perhaps, hang not only the hopes of this Republic, but the hopes of the world.

We are gathering our forces from the East and from the West; we are massing our strength; we are pouring out our men, our blood, our treasure like water; not only all our own treasure—all we of this generation have and all we hope to have—but we are mortgaging, in advance, the property and the earnings of generations to come after us, to raise the means necessary to sustain our cause and win the decisive victory.

Our country at this hour is bleeding at every pore; every household wears the drapery of mourning; grief sits an unwelcome visitor at every fireside; an unbidden guest fills the vacant chair at every family table; and, by the side of the mourning widow or mother, bends, in anguish, deep and unutterable, at every family altar. Sir, some of us have been made to drink of this bitter cup; there are some, like my honorable friend from Maine, [Mr. FESSENDEN,] and myself, who have been compelled to look into the graves of our sons, fallen a sacrifice to put down this unholy rebellion. And, sir, we have been made to feel, in our inmost souls, what our judgments clearly see, that the great issue of this people and specially of this present time, and before which all others should give place, is an issue of arms—whether we shall have success or whether we shall fail in crushing the military power of the rebellion.

Shall the Republic live or die? We not only know, but we are made to feel that if we do not succeed in maintaining this Government and putting down this rebellion—and that can only be done by force of arms—our sons have been sacrificed in vain. But if we shall succeed, as, with the blessing of Providence, I hope and trust we may; if we shall be permitted to see that standard, under which they entered the service, float once more in triumph, with not one star obscured nor one stripe erased, over every inch of the soil of every State and Territory of the United States, we can then say to our struggling hearts, "Peace, be still! though our sons have fallen our country lives."

We know, we feel, that in war as in religion and in every other great department of life, there is, and there can be, but one great, all-absorbing, controlling issue to be decided at the same time. We are told in Holy Writ, "Seek first the kingdom of Heaven and its righteousness, and all other things shall be added unto you." And in this war of our country for its very life, we should seek first, last and all the time to do nothing, to engage in nothing, to say nothing but that which gives force to our armies, or raise the money to sustain them. When this war is past; when peace shall smile once more in beauty all around us; when there is no more blood to be shed; when there are no more sons to be sacrificed upon the altar, then, if you will, open this Senate Chamber to become a debating school for all the abstractions you please.

Mr. President, as I have said already, my respect for my honorable friend from Minnesota, I feel sure that in all his acts here he is guided only by the highest and most patriotic motives. But, at the same time, I cannot refrain from expressing my deep regret that an issue should have been raised at this time, or should appear to have been raised at this moment, before the people of the country upon this distracting question of negro suffrage.

In God's name, let us first save the Union; let us crush the rebellion; let us give freedom to the negroes as the necessary result of the prosecution of this war, and secure it by constitutional amendment. But let us postpone the discussion and action upon this and all other issues, which can only serve to distract, divide and weaken the energies of the loyal people in this great struggle. For myself, I would so conduct our affairs, if it were within my power, that the whole people of the free States, loyal States, in this controversy, should stand together as one man, shoulder to shoulder, speaking but one voice, breathing but one sentiment, their hearts pulsating with one wish, that is, to save the Government, crush the rebellion, and trample the Slave Confederacy in pieces.

But what else do we see? I do not hold the Senator from Minnesota solely responsible. This is but one measure of a whole class of measures tending to raise the question of negro social as well as political equality. Of my honorable friend from Massachusetts, (Mr. SUMNER,) I have sometimes thought in my heart I had some right to complain, not personally of him, but of propositions that he is disposed to bring forward from time to time, that to me seem to have no bearing whatever on the great issue, and tend to nothing else but to distract the public mind, and divide the hearts and energies of loyal men. Upon any other subject but the negro question, my honorable friend can appreciate what I am about to say, as well as I or any other Senator. As an instance, we all know, and none better than that Senator, how important it is for us to have the moral support, sympathy, if not the friendship, at least the strict neutrality of foreign Governments in this struggle, if we can retain them, legitimately and honorably. At all events, he knows as well as I, how disastrous it would be for us to raise an issue now with England or France which might lead them to recognize the Confederacy, much more should they enter into an alliance with the Confederacy and take sides against us. He would go, I know, very far to prevent any such thing as that; but let me say to my honorable friend that, in my judgment, and before high Heaven, I declare it would be of much more consequence to us if we could make the whole people of New-York, of Pennsylvania, of the great West, and of all the loyal States, unanimously sustain the Union cause, shake hands together, and declare, "We will know nothing but the Union and the vigorous prosecution of the war, and we will say nothing, but fill the Treasury, fill the ranks, and press on the columns until the last flag of the rebellion is put under our feet; we will have no divisions in our ranks, no unnecessary controversies, until this struggle is over; we will all march together, shoulder to shoulder, and keep step to the music of the Union." I say, and I say it in all sincerity, that at this hour, if it were in my power, I would give more to have the whole people of the Free States of this Union join with us, hand in hand, in political action as well as in arms, with no divided voice and no divided sentiment, in the support of this Government and to crush the rebellion, than to have England and France, one or both together, join us in war against the Confederacy.

That is my conviction; and if I express myself earnestly, warmly, strongly, gentlemen must not misunderstand me. I do not speak in anger; it is "more in sorrow than in anger." I deplore the raising of new issues which can only distract and divide, and which, if persisted in, may throw the power of the Government into the hands of those who sympathize, to a greater or less degree, with the rebellion itself.

In the great States whose voice is to control; in the great States of Pennsylvania, New-York, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, in addition to all the issues necessarily raised and which must be decided, no other issue could be named or raised which would tend so much to inflame the political controversies of the times as to throw into what is now already existing this additional issue about negro suffrage. God knows we have elements of discord enough all around us, elements bordering almost upon revolution in some of the free States. Look which way you will, to New-York or to Illinois, it sometimes breaks out in open bloodshed and revolt. Let us rather allay than stir up the excitements of the hour. We have all we can deal with, all that we can master in our present situation. If we unloose other spirits of discord to run riot through all the Free States during this Presidential election—itself the greatest trial to which the American people has ever yet been subjected—a Presidential election with a million of men in arms waging this gigantic war, to throw other elements of bitterness and strife into the canvass, no man can see the result. If these political witches from the regions below "round about the cauldron go," and "in the poisoned entrails throw," they will make for us "a charm of powerful trouble, like a hell-broth boil and bubble."

Mr. President, I know my action upon this as upon some previous occasions will be misunderstood, misconstrued, and misrepresented. Such has been the case when, on questions akin to this and for the same reasons which influence me now, I have sought to postpone and avoid the discussion of unnecessary issues. For instance, there is the pending question of negro suffrage in the District of Columbia. I think it would be very unwise to agitate that question now. Then there was that question whether the railroad company should allow negroes to ride in cars by themselves or be compelled to seat them side by side with the wives and daughters of white men in this District. I thought it most unwise in the Senator from Massachusetts to raise that question which bears upon the question of social equality. Perhaps, I was mistaken; but that was my opinion, and I expressed that opinion frankly. My action was misrepresented in the telegraphic reports in a portion of the press all the way from Boston to Wisconsin. They seem to forget that no falsehood is so dangerous as that which comes from intermingling truth with error; that the truth half told is a lie. One journal says:

> "Our readers will observe that Mr. DOOLITTLE, with a few other Republican Senators, voted against allowing negroes the poor privilege of riding upon a District of Columbia railroad."

Such was not the fact at all. I did not vote against allowing them to ride in the cars, but for the convenience of the public to allow the company to assign them certain cars. What are the facts? Here is a railroad company in the city of Washington. Cars are provided in which negroes ride; and they are just as good in every respect as those provided for white people. In fact they are far more comfortable; for they are not half so crowded. I have ridden in them sometimes myself. Now, what I objected to was, that by law you should compel white people to ride in the same car and upon the same seats with negroes, whether they desire to do so or not. I thought it unwise and unnecessary; that it would do no good to raise the question of social as well as political equality between the negroes and the white people of this country at a time like this; and while others, who thought as I thought and felt as I felt, shrank from declaring their opinions, I thank God He has given me the courage to be true to my convictions, though I may be misrepresented here or elsewhere. I do not hesitate to say that this measure was altogether unnecessary and was unwise.

This same Committee on the District of Columbia has charge of the schools, of the hotels and the erection of churches here.

Mr. GRIMES—Not the hotels.

Mr. DOOLITTLE—They might have, if a company was to be incorporated to run a hotel.

Mr. GRIMES—I do not desire to have the Senator create the impression in the country that the Committee on the District of Columbia are responsible for the hotels here. [Laughter.]

Mr. DOOLITTLE—I did not say that the committee ran the hotels; but they might be called upon to incorporate a company to run a hotel. They called upon us the other day to incorporate a company to run a Masonic Hall Association. One of the sections of that bill was the most prolific and pregnant section I ever saw, for it contained about twenty corporations. It is possible, therefore, that the Committee on the District of Columbia may be called upon to organize companies for the purpose of running some good hotels; and for my part I should be very much obliged, and I think the people of the District and the people of the country would be obliged to them, if they would organize some companies to run some good hotels here. But I will only suppose a case. I have no controversy with the committee; I am dealing with the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. SUMNER.) Suppose such a bill were pending in the Senate to incorporate a hotel company, and my honorable friend from Massachusetts, carried away as usual by his doctrine of equality before the law, should offer an amendment, as he probably would, to compel the hotel keeper to seat negroes side by side with white people at its table. Regarding such an amendment as unwise and unnecessary, I might feel constrained to vote against it. If I did, through the telegraphic reports and by certain journals I should be misrepresented. They, if I were to judge by the past, would probably say that I was opposed to negroes having the poor privilege of eating at all, because I should be opposed to a proposition to compel the keeper of a hotel to seat negroes side by side with white people at the same table.

Again: Suppose this Committee on the District of Columbia should bring in a bill to organize an association to build a church, and my friend from Massachusetts also should propose, in order to carry out the great doctrine of equality before the law, an amendment to compel the sexton to seat white men and women and colored men and women in the same pews, side by side. I might feel constrained to vote against that as unnecessary and unwise legislation. Undoubtedly I would be misrepresented through the telegraph, and by a certain portion of the press. From Boston to St. Paul a certain class of men would denounce me, and say, "Senator DOOLITTLE is opposed to negroes having the poor privilege of going to church at all."

I might make the same remark in regard to schools in this District. That subject has come before the Committee on the District of Columbia, and we have passed a law providing schools for the benefit of the negro children of the District, to which I gave a cheerful support. They attend those schools and reap the benefits and advantages of them. But, Sir, suppose the Senator from Massachusetts should bring forward a provision of law to compel every school teacher of every school in this city, white and black, to seat negro children and white children upon the same seats, side by side, in the same rooms.

The truth is, in the City of Washington there is a large population of African descent; they have their own associations; they have their own society, their own churches, their own schools; and I believe they are doing well and getting on very well, and I am rejoiced at the fact. But while we have so many revolutionary elements all around us, when we are just about to enter a Presidential canvass through which we must pass, shall we throw into that canvass all these other elements of excitement by giving our enemies occasion to say, and just grounds for saying, we are in favor of what is denominated political and social negro equality? Let us wait till the negro gets his freedom; let us wait till we crush the rebellion, and Slavery under it; let us remember that great things grow, they do not spring into existence in an hour. We do not harvest in Spring time.

Once more, there is another subject which might come under the jurisdiction of this committee, and that is the subject of marriage and divorces. Suppose legislation on that subject were pending here, and the honorable Senator from Massachusetts should propose, as he probably would, to legalize and sanction marriages between white and colored persons. I might look upon the proposition as unwise and unnecessary and ill-timed, and be constrained to vote against it. I might be denounced as being opposed to negroes marrying at all with just as much reason as I have been denounced as being opposed to negroes having the poor privilege of riding in the cars on a District of Columbia railroad. As I showed to the Senate when the matter was under consideration, which I repeat, it is no more an abridgment of their rights in that respect to have cars assigned to them than there is an abridgment of the right of the honorable Senator from Massachusetts, who generally travels alone, at all events not often in the company of ladies, when he takes his carpet-bag and goes down to the depot in this city to take passage for New-York. He cannot take a seat in some of the cars, for they are assigned to ladies and those with them; when he offers to enter the cars where ladies are seated, a young gentleman stationed there says to him, "No, sir; though you are very good-looking, you cannot come into this car; you must pass along and take your seat in another car." There is no more abridgment of the rights of colored people riding in the cars here than there is an abridgment of the right of my honorable friend from Massachusetts every time he goes over to New-York. There are certain cars into which he cannot go unless under the protection—and it is a protection that is worth something, I assure my honorable friend—of a good lady. [Laughter.]

Mr. President, there is another kindred proposition to which I should like to refer for a moment. The honorable Senator from Maine, (Mr. FESSENDEN,) who has charge of the affairs of the Committee on Finance, has no business to propose, and the honorable Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. WILSON) has nothing to propose from the Committee on Military Affairs, and hence I feel at liberty to take up a little more time than I should under other circumstances. As I am on the subject of personal explanations, I may as well go through the whole budget at once, and not trouble the Senate on any other occasion. When the question of raising the pay of the negro troops, and putting them on the same footing with the white troops was under consideration, a short time since, I did not object to raise their pay. But I had the honor of submitting a proposition that three dollars per month of the wages of those troops raised in the insurrectionary districts should be reserved for the purpose of enabling the Government properly to take care of and provide for negro women and children coming within the lines of our armies. I did not propose to apply it to the colored soldiers of Massachusetts or Pennsylvania, or New-Jersey, or any of the States where they live with their families and have been accustomed to provide for and take care of them, but to apply it to the insurrectionary districts only, to those portions of the country where the negroes have lived in a state of Slavery, where they have never had the responsibility of taking care of their wives and children, because they have been provided for by their masters. Those colored soldiers in the main have been altogether unaccustomed to the use of money. In my judgment, the amount of money you give them only determines how much shall go into the hands of the sutlers that follow those regiments. The great mass of them first set free, unaccustomed to the use of money, have not much more of that prudence necessary to take care of money than Indians.

The proposition was denounced by some as ungenerous, and by some newspapers I have been held up and denounced as Pro-Slavery in my sympathies, because I would use a part of their wages to feed and clothe their starving women and children. It was because I had sympathy for these poor people, the colored women and children coming within our lines, who are dying by scores, by hundreds, and by thousands, that I wished to retain some portion of the wages of the negro men who come in with them to provide for their necessities.

It is no sufficient answer to me for gentlemen to say these women and children are not the legal wives and legitimate children of these soldiers. They are their women and their children. They are of their race, and it would be ungenerous in them if they should object to giving a portion of their wages to save them from suffering, disease and death.

I will read a brief extract from a letter from a friend in the City of Natchez, on the condition of these poor people who come within our lines. It is one of the most touching appeals I have ever read:

> "Have you ever been in a negro corrall? If not, do not go to one unless you have the power to do everything to make them comfortable. These men, women and children, sick or well, are sent there as soon as they enter our lines. There is nothing provided for them of the furniture or clothing kind, just the bare walls and floor, hard-tack and bacon; nothing to cook with. If they bring a few rags and bed-clothes, they have them to sleep on; nothing provided. Very soon they get sick, and, if they must die, the sooner they die the better, as thousands have done and more will. Home sickness prevails among them like any other disease."

I will not take up the time of the Senate to read all there is contained in this letter; but, Sir, I stand on the ground I have taken, and my justification I leave to the future. Although in this I may have disagreed with the judgment of other men, no member on this floor has the right to denounce me as to offering an ungenerous proposition. My whole purpose, my only purpose, was to save those dying women and children. I say to you, Senators, there are facts in relation to these poor, suffering creatures which we must look in the face. We cannot blindly close our eyes and refuse to see them as they are. We must make provision for them, or their blood will be on our hands. We shall be held responsible in the judgment of posterity, at the bar of public opinion, and before that Higher Tribunal to which all must give account.

The Fort Pillow Massacre.

A LETTER FROM A NAVAL OFFICER.

The following letter has just been received by Mr. BLOW, of Missouri, respecting the treatment of our soldiers after the surrender of Fort Pillow:

UNITED STATES STEAMER "SILVER CLOUD,"
MISSISSIPPI RIVER, April 22, 1864.

SIR: Since you did me the favor of recommending my appointment last August, I have been on duty aboard this boat.

I now write you with reference to the Fort Pillow massacre. I write, because most of our crew are colored, and I feel personally interested in the retaliation which our Government may deal out to the rebels, when the fact of the merciless butchery is fully established.

Our boat arrived at the fort about 7½ A. M., on Wednesday, the 13th, the day after the rebels captured the fort. After shelling them, whenever we could see them, for two hours, a flag of truce from the rebel Gen. CHALMERS was received by us, and Capt. FERGUSON, of this boat, made an arrangement with Gen. CHALMERS for the paroling of our wounded and the burial of our dead; the arrangement to last until 5 P. M. We then landed at the fort, and I was sent out with a burial party to bury our dead.

I found many of the dead lying close along by the water's edge, where they had evidently sought safety; they could not offer any resistance from the places where they were, in holes and cavities along the banks; most of them had two wounds. I saw several colored soldiers of the Sixth United States Artillery, with their eyes punched out with bayonets; many of them were shot twice and bayonetted also. All those along the bank of the river were colored. The number of the colored near the river was about seventy. Going up into the fort, I saw there bodies partially consumed by fire. Whether burned before or after death I cannot say, any way there were several companies of rebels in the fort while these bodies were burning, and they could have pulled them out of the fire had they chosen to do so.

One of the wounded negroes told me that he hadn't done a thing, and when the rebels drove our men out of the fort they (our men) threw away their guns and cried out that they surrendered; but the rebels kept on shooting them down until they had shot all but a few. This is what they all say.

I had some conversation with rebel officers, and they claim that our men would not surrender, and in some few cases they could not control their men, who seemed determined to shoot down every negro soldier, whether he surrendered or not. This is a flimsy excuse, for after our colored troops had been driven from the fort, and they were surrounded by the rebels on all sides, it is apparent that they would do what all say they did, throw down their arms and beg for mercy.

I buried but very few white men; the whole number buried by my party and the party from the gunboat New Era was about one hundred.

The rebels had burned some of the white dead.

I can make affidavit to the above if necessary.

Hoping that the above may be of some service and that a desire to be of service will be considered sufficient excuse for writing to you, I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBERT S. CRITCHELL,
Acting-Master's Mate, U. S. N.

Hon. H. T. BLOW, member of Congress, Washington, D. C.

The Draft.

THE PLEA OF NON-RESIDENCE

WAR DEPARTMENT.
PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, April 29, 1864.

CIRCULAR No. 16.—The following opinion of the Hon. WILLIAM WHITING, Solicitor of the War Department, is published for the information and guidance of all officers of this Bureau:

In regard to the question whether the plea of non-residence in the district where a drafted man may have been enrolled, should, under all circumstances, be regarded by Boards of Enrollment as a legal and proper ground for exemption from military service under the draft in that district, &c.

OPINION.

When a person, who has been enrolled and drafted, claims exemption from draft on the ground of non-residence, the Board of Enrollment will be justified in granting it if he makes satisfactory proof on three points.

First—His non-residence in the district where he claims exemption at the time of his enrollment therein.

Second—What his place of actual residence was at the time when the enrollment therein was made.

Third—That he was, or is, actually enrolled, and has been drafted, or is liable to draft in his place of actual residence.

All persons from whom military service is required under the Act of Congress, are liable to enrollment and draft in some district. The notation of the occupations and residence of persons enrolled is not required to enable unpatriotic citizens, by technical objections, to avoid their fair share of public duty, but to identify the persons drafted and assist in equalizing among the different districts their respective quotas.

Whoever has been enrolled in one district, and intends to claim exemption from draft by residing elsewhere, must take care to be enrolled where he resides.

If the corrected enrollment be promptly effected, an application thereafter made to the Provost-Marshal-General, or to the Boards of Enrollment, will protect him against double liability, but if he neglect this privilege, he ought not escape all military service in time of war, by proving that an error had been made in the place of his residence, the spelling of his name, or the description of his trade or occupation.

It is deemed a privilege to enter into the military service of the United States. The patriot owes it to his country; the man of honor owes it to his neighbors to see that every citizen liable to military duty is properly enrolled.

JAMES B. FRY,
Provost-Marshal General.

Heavy Express Robbery.

ARREST OF THE ROBBERS AND RECOVERY OF THE MONEY.

From the St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald, April 26.

SHERWOOD HAGGART, Jr., the young man who robbed the United States Express, at this place, of over $26,000, is now safely lodged in our jail, having been brought in on Sunday by Capt. DAVENPORT and Mr. CRANDALL, the Express Agent. The prisoner is not over twenty-five years of age, of Scotch descent; is about five feet six or seven inches in height, auburn hair, and is, altogether, a sprightly looking lad. In a short interview with him yesterday, we learned the following facts concerning his adventure:

It seems that a few weeks ago he made the acquaintance of one THOMAS MCBRIDE, alias Lewis Shank, a veteran soldier, of the Sixth Iowa Regiment. On Sunday, the 11th inst., he met MCBRIDE in the fortifications above town, where they engaged in a game of euchre for money—the latter winning some sixty dollars from HAGGART. MCBRIDE knowing HAGGART to be the delivery-man of the Express Company, inquired if he did not often have intrusted to his care large sums of money. Being answered in the affirmative, he then proposed that the next time any large amount came into his hands they should make off with it. On Sunday, the 17th inst., they met again at the fortifications, and engaged in a game of cards—HAGGART being fifty-five dollars ahead when the game closed. HAGGART telling his companion that he had a good deal of treasure to deliver in the morning, MCBRIDE asked if he could not ascertain how much, and HAGGART though he could by looking over the books. It was then arranged that they were to meet the next morning at 9 o'clock, at a place, between two and three miles northeast of the city, where they would leave the horse and wagon, take the money and be off. When HAGGART arrived at the appointed rendezvous, he found his accomplice already here. A few yards from the road they buried $24,000; MCBRIDE took $1.000, and HAGGART $700. The latter then started for the river, where he expected to find a skiff, cross over and make his way to Fort Scott, thence down to Little Rock, Ark., and if he did not like it there, was to go to New-Orleans. It was also arranged that MCBRIDE was to dig up the buried money as soon as it was safe to do so, and follow HAGGERT.

HAGGART, not finding the skiff where he expected, continued on directly up the river to within five miles of Iowa Point, a distance of forty-five miles, arriving there at dark of the first day. Here he put up for the night, and early next morning crossed into Kansas. He struck south, and at noon on Tuesday was within a mile of Troy. He kept on across the prairie, and at night found he had traveled over forty-five miles. The morning of the third day he started for Leavenworth, but missed the road, and at noon found himself at Atchison. A few hours previous he had purchased a pony. After eating dinner, he started for Lawrence and Fort Scott, putting up for the night twenty miles from Atchison. On the fourth day he lost his road, and wandered about on the prairie until night. The fifth day he reached Lawrence, where he was arrested by the Marshal of that place and the Express Agent, who telegraphed to this city for Dr. CRANDALL. The latter, with Capt. DAVENPORT, immediately started for Lawrence, identified him as the man wanted, and arrived here, with him in irons, on Sunday. He revealed where the money was buried, and proceeded at once to unearth it. He also described his accomplice so minutely that the police were enabled to apprehend him early yesterday morning. He knew him by the name of LEWIS SHANK. His real name, however, proves to be THOMAS MCBRIDE. The latter denies all knowledge of the robbery, and says he never saw HAGGART.

The Fire in New-Haven.

THE LOSSES AND INSURANCES.

The New Haven Journal gives the following as among the losses suffered in the great fire in that place, on Saturday night:

"The dwelling-house, No. 23 Chestnut-street, owned by J. J. PHELPS, was valued at $3,000, of which $1.500 was insured in the City Company of Hartford.

Messrs. TREAT & DAVIS estimate their loss at between $25,000 and $30,000. On the main building they held an insurance of $2.000 in the Home Insurance Company, of New-Haven. The stock was insured for $7,000, $2,000 of which was in the Home Office, New-Haven; the balance in the Ætna Office, Hartford, of which J. G. NORTH is agent.

Messrs. HENRY HALE & Co. hold an insurance of $5 200 on their stock in the City Fire Insurance Company of New-Haven, and other offices represented by this company. The building was the individual property of Mr. HALE, and was valued at about $3 000; insured, $2,200. The aggregate loss of this firm is estimated at $15,000

J. F. GOODRICH, carriage manufacturer, holds a policy of $2,500 in the Home Office, New-Haven, and $1,000 each in the Jersey City and Albany City Fire Insurance Offices. This will nearly cover one-half his loss. The building was owned by H. GALBRAITH, and was about covered by insurance.

The double brick dwelling in Franklin-street, which was partially burned, was owned by Messrs. HALE & WATERBURY, and is fully insured in the City Fire Insurance Company, New-Haven.

Mr. D. S. GALBRAITH, plater, lost about $4.000; insured, $700.

We could not learn that there was any insurance on the dwelling occupied by the Freeman family.

Of the loss of J. P. BUNCE, carriage manufacturer, we are unable to state, that gentleman evincing a disposition to be non-committal on the insurance question. The building was owned by RUSSEL CHAPMAN, Esq., and was valued at $4.000; insured for $2,500 in the Home Office, New-Haven.

The Davenport Church cost between $3.000 and $4.000; insured for $1,500 in the Middlesex Mutual, Middlesex.

There may be and doubtless are other instances of losses and partial insurance, which will be made known when the facts are ascertained.

MASON & HAMLIN'S CABINET ORGANS, FOR FAMILIES, CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS—Recognized by the musical profession as greatly superior to Harmoniums, Melodeons and all other small organs. [See our illustrated catalogue for explicit testimony to their superiority, from a majority of the most eminent organists in America.] Prices, $85 to $500 each.
CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.—The great reputation which our Cabinet Organs have obtained, and the extensive demand for them, have induced dealers to advertise, in some cases, quite different instruments as Cabinet Organs, and in others to represent to purchasers that Harmoniums and other reed organs are the same thing. This is not true. The excellences of our Cabinet Organs, which have given them their high reputation, are the result not merely of the superiority of their workmanship, but also in large measure, of essential differences in construction, which, being patented, cannot be imitated by other makers. From these arise their better quality and volume of tone and unrivaled capacity for expression. Warerooms in New-York, No. 7 Mercer-st.
